Action Agenda

Arkansas Department of Education Staff Attorney Ms. Jennifer Davis said the history of school choice was reflected in legislation from 1989, 2013, and 2015.

Ms. Saviers moved, seconded by Dr. Barth, to take action items 1, 2, 3, and 4 from the table. The motion carried unanimously.

A-1 Consideration of Appeal from Denial of School Choice Application – Wilson

Staff Attorney Ms. Jennifer Davis said pursuant to Ark. Code Ann. § 6-18-1901 et seq. (as amended by Act 560 of 2015) and the Arkansas Department of Education Emergency Rules Governing the Public School Choice Act of 2015; the Wilson family appealed the decision of the White Hall School District to deny a school choice application for the 2015-2016 school year. She said the family resided in the Dollarway School District.
Parent Ms. LaQuita Wilson requested to enroll her kindergarten student in the White Hall School District. She said her other children attend the White Hall School District.

White Hall School District Superintendent Dr. Larry Smith said Ms. Wilson’s other children attended the White Hall School District under previous school choice legislation. He said the White Hall School District denied the application because the Dollarway School District submitted an exemption for school choice.

Dollarway School District Attorney Mr. Paul Bloom said the Dollarway School District was under a desegregation order and, therefore, did not participate in school choice. He said the district submitted a letter to the ADE.

Dollarway School District Superintendent Ms. Patsy Hughey said the Dollarway School District’s demographic was approximately 90% African American students.

Ms. Zook moved to grant the appeal of school choice application for Wilson. The motion died for lack of a second.

Ms. Wilson said her child should be able to attend the White Hall School District because the child should have preference as a sibling.

Dr. Smith said he currently believed the district was at capacity for kindergarten, but he would not know until the beginning of school.

Mr. Bloom said the preference did not apply in this case. He said the federal court would need to decide if previous preferences should be in effect.

Dr. Barth moved, seconded by Ms. Saviers, to deny the appeal of school choice application for the Wilson family. Ms. Zook voted no. The final vote was 7-1. The motion carried.

A-2 and A-3 items were discussed together.

A-2 Consideration of Appeal from Denial of School Choice Applications – Teague, Morton, Lloyd, Green, Gardner, and Wheelington Families

Staff Attorney Ms. Jennifer Davis said pursuant to Ark. Code Ann. § 6-18-1901 et seq. (as amended by Act 560 of 2015) and the Arkansas Department of Education Emergency Rules Governing the Public School Choice Act of 2015, the Teague, Morton, Lloyd, Green, Gardner and Wheelington families appealed the decision of the Emerson-Taylor-Bradley School District to deny school choice applications for the 2015-2016 school year. She said the families resided in the Lafayette County School District and requested a joint hearing before the State Board of Education.
Emerson-Taylor-Bradley School District Superintendent Mr. Gary Hines said the families submitted timely requests. He said they were denied because the Lafayette County School District submitted an exemption for school choice.

Parent Mr. Brad Lloyd said Lafayette County School District was the only district that submitted an exemption for school choice. He said the desegregation order is for a district (Lewisville School District) that no longer existed.

Lafayette County School District Attorney Ms. Whitney Moore said the appeals were correctly denied because the ADE has no authority to interpret the court order. She said the Lewisville School District was consolidated into the Lafayette County School District.

Lafayette County School District Superintendent Mr. Robert Edwards said a legal transfer would not be considered at this time. He said the district has a 60% African American enrollment.

Ms. Moore clarified that the Lafayette County School Board would consider a legal transfer on exceptional reasons.

Mr. Lloyd said the families are seeking a better education for their children. He said they did not want to change schools because of race.

Mr. Williamson moved, seconded by Ms. Reith, to deny the appeal of School Choice Application for Teague, Morton, Lloyd, Green, Gardner, and Wheelington Families. The motion carried unanimously.

A-3 Consideration of Appeal from Denial of School Choice Application – Black

She said the families resided in the Lafayette County School District and requested a joint hearing before the State Board of Education.

Spring Hill School District Superintendent Ms. Angie Raney said applications were submitted on time and were denied because the Lafayette County School District submitted an exemption for school choice.

Lafayette County School District Attorney Ms. Whitney Moore restated earlier objections. She said the Dean student was enrolled in the Spring Hill School District.

Parent Ms. Connie Dean said her child was enrolled in the Spring Hill School District under a power of attorney. She said this year, she requested to revoke the power of attorney and apply for school choice to Spring Hill School District.

Parent Ms. Angie Vickers read a prepared statement on behalf of the families. She contended the desegregation settlement was terminated by a federal judge and, therefore, was not an active issue.

Ms. Moore said the district had to report for three years. She said a declaration of unity status would be required to remove the Lafayette County School District from the desegregation order. She said the Lafayette County School District had not requested unity status.

Ms. Dean said consolidation would not be permitted that was negative toward desegregation. She said that the Stamps School District and the Lewisville School District consolidated to form the Lafayette County School District.

She said the family resided in the Forrest City School District.

Parent Mr. Glen Bashaw said his daughter has attended the Wynne School District since kindergarten. He said the parents are currently involved in a custody case.

Forrest City School District Attorney Mr. Brad Beavers said the appeal was premature because currently the child resided in the Wynne School District and legally attended the Wynne School District. Mr. Beavers said a decision today by the Board might influence the custody case. He said the Wynne School District acted properly by denying the application.

Mr. Bashaw said he was trying to be proactive for his daughter.

Mr. Williamson moved, seconded by Dr. Barth, to deny the appeal of school choice application for the Bashaw family. The motion carried unanimously.

Little Rock School District Senior Director of Student Services Dr. Frederick Fields said the district looked at the current enrollment and calculated the number of vacant seats available for opportunity school choice. Report-10 Arkansas TESS and LEADS Focus Group Report said the Arkansas’s educator evaluation system was originally designed by a 36-member teacher evaluation task force formed in the spring of 2009 for the purpose of researching, evaluating and recommending a framework for summative evaluation. The task force designed the Teacher Excellence and Support System (TESS) and Leader Excellence and Development System (LEADS) to include valid measures of professional practice as well as impact on student growth and performance. In 2011, the Arkansas General Assembly introduced and passed legislation defining TESS: a system to support effective teaching and leading in Arkansas schools. TESS and LEADS were piloted in the 2013-14 school year, and implemented statewide in 2014-15 with an online data management platform, BloomBoard.

Assistant Commissioner of Educator Effectiveness and Licensure Ms. Ivy Pfeffer

Ms. Pfeffer said to inform the continuous improvement of TESS and LEADS, the Arkansas Department of Education (ADE) invited the Southern Regional Education Board (SREB) to conduct focus groups with teachers and administrators across the state in the spring of 2015. The purpose of the focus groups was to learn about TESS and LEADS implementation and gather honest feedback about how the systems could be improved.

Mr. Andy Baxter, Vice President for Educator Effectiveness for the Southern Regional Education Board (SREB), said the work focused on feedback regarding the design and implementation of TESS and LEADS. He said SREB conducted focus groups in eight cities all around Arkansas between May 5 and 14, 2015. A total of 197 educators participated in 29 focus groups. Participants included 82 classroom teachers, 14 school-based specialists, 70 school leaders and 31 district-level leaders.

Mr. Baxter said the findings included:
1. TESS clarifies teaching standards.
3. TESS takes a lot of time.
4. TESS requires structural and cultural changes in schools.
5. Concern about consistent implementation.
6. Participants had little knowledge about student growth components.
7. LEADS significantly lags TESS.

Education Renewal Zones
Statewide Initiative
2014-2015 Annual Report

Johnny Key
Commissioner of Education

Debbie Jones, Ed.D.
Assistant Commissioner
Division of Learning Services
Introduction
The Educational Renewal Zone (ERZ) Director of each of the six current ERZ locations works as part of the university faculty in the college of education and designs a unique yearly strategic plan. In reaching the primary focus of a quality learning environment and effective research-based instruction for all students, the strategic plan is individualized. The needs of each school are at the heart of this collaborative effort.

Goals
Each ERZ submitted a report of their annual strategic plan, which was reviewed by the Office of Educational Renewal Zone (OERZ) Director. Each ERZ provided evidence that all goals indicated below were accomplished for the 2014-2015 school year as required by Act 106 of the 84th General Assembly.

- Provide collaboration between and among the Higher Education Institution partners, Education Service Cooperatives, schools, and communities participating in the Educational Renewal Zone.

- Provide for a comprehensive program of professional development to assure the practical knowledge base of pre-service and in-service teachers with respect to pedagogical practice, content knowledge, and competent use of distance learning technology.

- Serve as a resource for schools to provide enhancement and expansion of local school curricula offerings through the use of digital learning to include advanced placement, dual-credit, and advanced high school courses.

- Support the sharing of faculty for core course offerings when schools are unable to hire highly qualified teachers in core subject areas required for college entrance or teachers necessary to meet state accreditation standards.

- Collaborate with schools to develop strategies to recruit and retain highly qualified teachers with particular focus on hard-to-staff schools.

- Support a system for mentoring teachers with three (3) or fewer years of professional service.

- Support active participation of the community in the work of the school.

- Support active involvement of parents in the academic work of the student.
• The South Arkansas Mathematics Standards Partnership at SAU ERZ is a grant-funded project, which provides 16 days of training for 40 regional math and science teachers at SAU in collaboration with the South Central Service Cooperative.

• The South Arkansas Integrated Science and Mathematics Initiative, another grant-funded consortium effort, provided 16 days of training to 44 regional math and science teachers at SAU in collaboration with the South Central Service Cooperative.

• The Technology Bootcamp, funded by a Federal NCLB Improving Teacher Quality grant, allows 20 math and science teachers from participating districts to receive 10 days of technology training at SAU and the South Central Service Cooperative.

• The eSTEM Academy is an Arkansas Science and Technology Authority grant that funded a program that provided a three-day and two-night residential learning experience at SAU to 5th grade students in two elementary schools in Texarkana.

• We can build it and make it go! is a STEM project funded by a grant from the Women’s Foundation of Arkansas so girls in grades 8 through 10 in Magnolia and El Dorado could participate in engineering activities at SAU, specifically in robotics. Successful female STEM professionals mentored the girls.

• Development of a STE[A]M Professional Development Room at HSU in collaboration with the STEM Center and the Dawson Education Cooperative. This room will consist of STE[A]M related equipment, like computers with 3D printers, where teachers can receive professional development in how to integrate Science, Technology, Engineering, Arts, and Math into their instruction; and can also work with groups of students doing STE[A]M related activities directed by University Professors, STEM Specialists, THEA consultants and others.

As a collective group, the ERZ Directors worked with the ADE Professional Development Department and the local Educational Service Cooperatives in funding and hosting four days of professional development in “Understanding by Design (UbD),” with Alison Zamuda and Jay McTighe as facilitators. UbD is a three-stage process for curriculum planning and is the underlying design strategy used by many of the current Arkansas curriculum programs like the Literacy and Math Design Collaboratives. This four-day effort was a statewide collaboration involving over 400 teachers plus the inclusion of pre-service teacher candidates at some locations. Since only four locations were offered for the first two days of this training, the ERZ directors had to collaborate with other ERZ directors, ADE Professional Development staff, and with their Education Service Cooperative in organizing this showcase event. When weather became an issue during the March session, a Zoom conference was held between the individual
The ERZs also supported a number of other internal and external grant funded and collaborative efforts with other partners. A list of grants written to support ERZ activities is included below:

Northeast Arkansas Schools Conference on Bullying - The ASU ERZ, Arkansas Department of Education, ASU - Office of Behavioral Research and Evaluation, The Center for Community Engagement, and three Education Service Cooperatives, CRESC, NEAES and GRESC, contracted the services of Mr. Kenneth S. Trump to serve as the keynote speaker. Mr. Trump is the President of National School Safety and Security Services, a Cleveland-based national consulting firm specializing in school security and emergency preparedness training, school security assessments, school emergency planning consultations, and related school safety and crisis consulting services. Mr. Tripp Walter, Staff Attorney, Arkansas School Resource presented the legal aspects and responsibilities for schools at the event held on Friday, September 26, 2014 on the ASU campus. The attendance was 139 with lunch served by Sodexo Catering at ASU. Following the meeting the Coops discussed the next steps on how the ASU and ERZ could provide support for future anti-bullying efforts. A follow-up workshop was held on September 24, 2014, based on that post-conference collaboration. The guest speaker was Betty K. Ennis, PLPC, who specializes in counseling. The workshop was a two-session event morning and afternoon. Learn specific bullying prevention strategies for elementary and middle schools. PD Hours were offered to participants.

Arkansas School Disaster Preparedness Conference for PK-12 Schools of Northeast Arkansas – This was a large gathering of Northeast Arkansas School Administrators and School Emergency Management Committee members and districts. The ASU ERZ, ASU College of Education & Behavioral Science, Northeast Arkansas Educational Service Cooperative, Crowley's Ridge Education Service Cooperative, and Great Rivers Education Service Cooperative held the event at the ASU Centennial Hall on November 13, 2014, for 75 participants. The presenters were Dr. Debbie Persell, Regional Center for Disaster Preparedness Education/College of Nursing and Health Professions; Brent Cox, Assistant Professor of Disaster Preparedness/College of Nursing and Health Professions; Dr. Bill Smith, Executive Director of Marketing and Communication; Holly Hall, J.D., APR Associate Professor of Journalism/College of Media and Communications; and Ms. Cathy Riggins, Principal, Vilonia Middle School who presented Reality Check. The ASU Marketing and Communication Department presented Media During Disasters.

Autism Awareness Forum – Thursday, April 2, 2015 – The Department of Education Leadership, Curriculum, and Special Education, Education Renewal Zone and Jonesboro Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta, Inc., collaborated to make this event a success. Dr. Kimberley Davis, Committee Chair worked diligently in providing arrangement and speakers. Fifty participants were in attendance. service teachers to smoothly transition to public schools and designed to promote continuous learning is provided by Education Service Cooperatives, ADE, STEM Center, public school specialists, and other professional educators. This professional development collaborative has evolved to include non-traditional students and public university students. Non-practicing educators wanting to continue licensure status are also invited to participate. Topics are developed each year to support the educational needs of partner schools. The ERZ also assists with providing resources for Hot Topics' eight days of required professional development for interns. The purpose of this required professional development is to expose pre-service teachers to topics that are on the forefront of education in Arkansas and to ensure full licensure status.

The ERZ sponsors the New Teacher Induction Program at Henderson to offer additional support to schools. This program provides mentoring for novice and career teachers. The ERZ collaborates with co-ops, public schools, and other service providers to offer a 2½ day Induction Retreat for all ERZ schools. TESS, PARCC, state-required professional development, and other requested professional development is offered to the new teachers. Participants are paired with mentors from education service cooperatives, Math and Science Center, and higher education who provide support, assistance, and formative feedback throughout the year. The ERZ office collaborates with education service cooperatives, Henderson faculty, and school district administrators to expand and approve the model and plan for delivery of services.
• Effective Questioning Techniques and Essential Questions. Nine schools participated in this highly requested professional development.

The SAU ERZ Director orchestrated the statewide PARCC Summit that was held at Pulaski Technical College in North Little Rock. The 143 educational leaders who participated in this summit represented every area of the P-20 education spectrum and came together to frame key regional issues and learn about national trends concerning PARCC. It was a very well received summit.
• Increasing student and parent awareness of the impact of educational opportunities and choice addressing the changing regional and global workforce needs.

Three sub-committees were recently established to promote greater dialogue about specific topics: teacher education, math alignment, and literacy alignment. Small groups of P-12 and postsecondary educators gathered to pinpoint precise areas of misalignment and offer suggestions for bridging the gaps.

E.Y.E. to the Future: Education, Youth, and the Economy - In June 2014 was a one-day regional P-20 education conference that focused on bringing educators, local industry representatives, and policymakers together.

The June 2014 event included roundtable discussions between educators and community members, a student panel, and sessions highlighting current innovative efforts in schools. In June 2015, the event will highlight more school-community partnership programs and include greater participation from local industry representatives.

The Digital Learning Consortium - In summer 2014, the UA initiated talks with local schools through the ERZ to create and deliver digital content needed by schools to comply with the Digital Learning Law. Since that time, educators from local schools and the UA have been working collaboratively to form a digital learning consortium. This group (now co-led by the ERZ director and the Assistant Director of the NWAESC) will guide the process of creating three to five digital courses that will be available on a web-based platform for any school in Northwest Arkansas to use at no cost.

In January 2015, 17 local superintendents were surveyed to assess needs related to digital learning; specifically what courses are most needed. In the summer, three to five local teachers will receive stipends provided by the UA to develop digital courses alongside UA instructional designers. Courses should be ready to be utilized by schools by fall 2016.
and residence life. This year, two UAFS days were planned: October 30 and June 5. For the October day, the UAFS ERZ hosted additional sessions featuring academic programs in the College of Applied Sciences; 59 students participated. For the June day, the ERZ will work with another college to provide informational sessions on their programs of study.

Students participating in the River Valley CCRPP increase their ACT score by an average of 2 points. Funding amounts for the past three years and the ask amount for the upcoming year are noted below.

- 2012-13 secured grant for $338,976
- 2013-14 secured grant for $173,000
- 2014-15 secured grant for $258,193
- 2015-16 ask amount of grant $311,455

Each year the UAFS ERZ hosts the Curriculum Advisory Conference in consultation with the UAFS School of Education. The target audience for this conference is the university’s pre-service teachers (approximately 600 students). The focus of the conference is based on current and pertinent topics in education. The last Curriculum Advisory Conference proved to be the most successful conference yet, as the ERZ was able to host Harry and Rosemary Wong. Not only did the conference include UAFS’s pre-service teachers and faculty, but also for the first time, the event was opened to career teachers in ERZ partner schools and other regional schools, as well as pre-service teachers and faculty from area institutions of higher education.

For the conference this fall, the UAFS ERZ will replicate the success of the Wongs’ visit by hosting Mr. Taylor Mali, nationally known teacher advocate, writer, and poet for the next Curriculum Advisory Conference. Mali is a four-time National Poetry Slam champion and the author of four books, including What Teachers Make: In Praise of the Greatest Job in the World. Since 1998, over one thousand people have become teachers after reading or listening to Taylor Mali’s passionate poems about his experiences teaching middle school, high school, and college.

Following Mr. Mali speaking and book signing, an invitation-only session will be led by Mr. Mali. This session will be a writers’ workshop of select area secondary teachers and their students. In this session teachers and a few of their students write, create, and learn together. Also included in this session will be pre-service teachers with concentrations in English Language Arts, and selected students from the creative writing program at UAFS.

UAFS hosted the inaugural STEM WARS on campus the last week of May 2015. STEM WARS is a district-wide engineering design challenge that engages students in learning science, technology, engineering, and mathematics through an integrated, problem-solving approach. The UAFS ERZ has partnered with Fort Smith Public Schools on this program.

- Day One featured grades 3 and 4, with approximately 700 students engaging in 3 possible design challenges (a mechanized scoop to perform specific tasks, a
The UAM/Southeast ERZ partners with 47 public schools (15 districts). Of those 47 schools, one is a needs improvement priority school, nine are needs improvement focus schools, 36 are needs improvement schools, and one is an achieving school. The ERZ at UAM facilitated a discussion and review of the ERZ Vision Statement in the UAM School of Education, STEM Center, and ERZ Stakeholders Meeting held on March 31, 2015. The UAM/Southeast ERZ was a very active ERZ this year, completing 24 separate projects in support of their partner schools. One of the major focuses for this ERZ is the Leadership Coaching training of administrators. Their collaborative understanding through their work with school improvement and scholastic audit is that leadership is a precursor to meaningful school turnaround.

In this report, four professional development activities and one STEM project are being highlighted. The following activities were a snapshot of the projects facilitated/supported by the UAM ERZ:

- The Professors as Partners Project continues as a program that supports ERZ partners (schools/districts). During 2014-2015, the Professors as Partners Project was re-emphasized for the UAM School of Education (SOE) faculty. Each SOE professor was assigned a district to contact monthly through phone calls, visits, and/or emails. Professors visited classrooms as experts, served as resources for materials and support, and modeled. As of January 28, 2015, there had been 319 cases of documented support and over 300 visits by UAM faculty (Arts/Humanities, Math/Science, School of Education), STEM Center Specialist, and ERZ Director.

- The Leadership Coaching Level I training was offered as a collaborative effort for UAM faculty as well as partner/associate partner school districts. This training was held on May 29-30 and June 4-5, 2014. There were 28 attendees representing UAM, the UAM STEM Center, and partner/associate partner schools. Leadership coaching training supports the development of instructional leaders who can impact greater student achievement and public school performance.

Introduction
The Educational Renewal Zone (ERZ) Director of each of the six current ERZ locations works as part of the university faculty in the college of education and designs a unique yearly strategic plan. In reaching the primary focus of a quality learning environment and effective research-based instruction for all students, the strategic plan is individualized. The needs of each school are at the heart of this collaborative effort.

Goals
Each ERZ submitted a report of their annual strategic plan, which was reviewed by the Office of Educational Renewal Zone (OERZ) Director. Each ERZ provided evidence that all goals indicated below were accomplished for the 2014-2015 school year as required by Act 106 of the 84th General Assembly.

- Provide collaboration between and among the Higher Education Institution partners, Education Service Cooperatives, schools, and communities participating in the Educational Renewal Zone.

- Provide for a comprehensive program of professional development to assure the practical knowledge base of pre-service and in-service teachers with respect to pedagogical practice, content knowledge, and competent use of distance learning technology.

- Serve as a resource for schools to provide enhancement and expansion of local school curricula offerings through the use of digital learning to include advanced placement, dual-credit, and advanced high school courses.

- Support the sharing of faculty for core course offerings when schools are unable to hire highly qualified teachers in core subject areas required for college entrance or teachers necessary to meet state accreditation standards.

- Collaborate with schools to develop strategies to recruit and retain highly qualified teachers with particular focus on hard-to-staff schools.

- Support a system for mentoring teachers with three (3) or fewer years of professional service.

- Support active participation of the community in the work of the school.

- Support active involvement of parents in the academic work of the student.
COMBINED REPORT

ERZ Activities 2014-2015

All six ERZ offices have effectively implemented the legislatively mandated goals for 2014-2015. They have collaborated with their partner schools, Education Service Cooperatives, partner university, STEM Center, and other stakeholders to design a strategic plan to meet their needs within the goal structure set in statute. The following information reflects a collective summary of the ERZ work done this year in support of our P-20 students in Arkansas.

The ERZs are unique in that their goals are focused on the schools they serve. ERZ directors share successful implementations with the other ERZ directors and collaboratively work to develop new and innovative activities. There are several activities that some or all of the ERZs have been involved in this year, thus allowing ADE to collect data on some of the ERZ collaborations.

The first of these programs comes under the broad category of College and Career Readiness Programs. These programs take on a local name and specific function in the various ERZs. Goals for of these programs vary from preparing a greater number of high school students to be ready to enter college with an ACT score of greater than 19 in each area to giving P-20 students an opportunity to network with local industry representatives and policymakers. The Southwest Arkansas College Preparatory Academy, is reaching down into the lower grades in order to have more time to create greater impact on score improvement and has a component that helps students avoid remediation upon entering university. University staff members work alongside K-12 staff in these programs. Collaborations in this area involved 865 students, 11 teachers, 22 university faculty, one STEM Center staff member, two education cooperative partners and involved more than 30 districts.

The legislation that set up the original Education Renewal Zones did not specifically identify STEM Centers in the language of the bill, but as ADE provides support for schools it has become a natural collaboration of service providers. Schools not only receive additional assistance they are better able to meet the technology goals in the process. STEM Center collaboration varies from one ERZ to another, but inclusion of STEM activities occurs at each of the six ERZs.

The OERZ director and the six ERZ directors participate in the STEM Coalition. Some of the STEM related projects that ERZs are currently actively supporting include the following:

- UAM ERZ partnered with the UAM STEM Center to offer a conference called Girls in STEM, April 21, 2015, which was attended by 70 girls from southwest Arkansas.
• The South Arkansas Mathematics Standards Partnership at SAU ERZ is a grant-funded project, which provides 16 days of training for 40 regional math and science teachers at SAU in collaboration with the South Central Service Cooperative.

• The South Arkansas Integrated Science and Mathematics Initiative, another grant-funded consortium effort, provided 16 days of training to 44 regional math and science teachers at SAU in collaboration with the South Central Service Cooperative.

• The Technology Bootcamp, funded by a Federal NCLB Improving Teacher Quality grant, allows 20 math and science teachers from participating districts to receive 10 days of technology training at SAU and the South Central Service Cooperative.

• The eSTEM Academy is an Arkansas Science and Technology Authority grant that funded a program that provided a three day and two night residential learning experience at SAU to 5th grade students in two elementary schools in Texarkana.

• We can build it and make it go! is a STEM project funded by a grant from the Women’s Foundation of Arkansas so girls in grades 8 through 10 in Magnolia and El Dorado could participate in engineering activities at SAU, specifically in robotics. Successful female STEM professionals mentored the girls.

• Development of a STE[A]M Professional Development Room at HSU in collaboration with the STEM Center and the Dawson Education Cooperative. This room will consist of STE[A]M related equipment, like computers with 3D printers, where teachers can receive professional development in how to integrate Science, Technology, Engineering, Arts, and Math into their instruction; and can also work with groups of students doing STE[A]M related activities directed by University Professors, STEM Specialists, THEA consultants and others.

As a collective group, the ERZ Directors worked with the ADE Professional Development Department and the local Educational Service Cooperatives in funding and hosting four days of professional development in “Understanding by Design (UbD),” with Alison Zamuda and Jay McTighe as facilitators. UbD is a three-stage process for curriculum planning and is the underlying design strategy used by many of the current Arkansas curriculum programs like the Literacy and Math Design Collaboratives. This four-day effort was a statewide collaboration involving over 400 teachers plus the inclusion of pre-service teacher candidates at some locations. Since only four locations were offered for the first two days of this training, the ERZ directors had to collaborate with other ERZ directors, ADE Professional Development staff, and with their Education Service Cooperative in organizing this showcase event. When weather became an issue during the March session, a Zoom conference was held between the individual from professional development who was organizing this workshop series, the presenter, and the ERZ directors, in order to deal with this act of nature and still get this training to the participants. A recording made by AETN at the HSU session was made available for those participants to view. The ERZ Director at UAM is the representative on the ADE Professional Development Advisory Committee.

All six of the ERZs have extensive programs to connect university faculty with K-12 classrooms and teachers. These programs differ in the way they are implemented at each ERZ, but this allows for many positive outcomes. The universities say they gain as much as the teachers and students from this collaboration. Some of these programs are described in the individual ERZ section, but even when they are not highlighted for that ERZ, this is one of our strongest collaborations.

The six ERZ Directors and the OERZ Director attempted to connect with more schools and districts by having an information table at the EAST Initiative National Conference and by sponsoring a table at the AASCD Summer Conference in June. These statewide venues, allow ERZs to reach more schools, communicate the ERZ mission, encourage schools to become involved in an ERZ, and inform educators about upcoming activities.
The ERZs also supported a number of other internal and external grant funded and collaborative efforts with other partners. A list of grants written to support ERZ activities is included below:

The following information reflects a snapshot of the activities occurring at each ERZ in support of their unique school improvement needs. Each ERZ is listed alphabetically and three to five of their major activities are described.

Arkansas State University
Sandra Hawkins, Interim Director, ASU-Education Renewal Zone

The Arkansas State University (ASU) Education Renewal Zone (ERZ) serves 65 schools in 23 school districts among 12 contiguous counties of Northeast Arkansas. Although the ERZ director at this university was on medical leave this year, the university appointed Sandra Hawkins as interim director, and she has implemented their strategic plan this year. This university is in a transition period, having an interim director of the College of Education at this time too, but has continued to have a strong collaborative presence within member districts.

During the past year, there were several highly public and collaborative initiatives related to the goals of the ERZ. Among the ongoing initiatives was the College Preparatory Academy of the Delta (CPAD) and CPAD College Day, Crowley’s Ridge Educational Service Cooperative’s (CRESC) Annual Summer Leadership Conference, Northeast Arkansas Schools Conference on Bullying, the Arkansas School Disaster Preparedness Conference, and the Autism Awareness Forum. A short description of each of these programs is provided below.

The College Preparatory Academy for the Delta (CPAD) - The purpose of this program is to increase readiness and success of students for college. The CPAD is a grades 9-16 initiative, managed and directed by the ASU ERZ, in collaboration with ASU COE, Arkansas Northeastern College (ANC), American College Testing (ACT), and the public school partners. Many of the legislative purposes from Act 106 are addressed through the CPAD, including Professional Development, Expanding Curricula, Mentoring, Enhancing Leadership, Staffing, Shared Funding Sources, and Parent and Community Involvement. To design and implement the Academy continues as an ongoing process. During this past year, the ERZ has been working with ASU sponsored programs, Blytheville schools, and the ASU College of Education to advance funding for this program beyond the present academic year, when the present grant funding is expended. The ERZ was the lead writer for a new grant combining various funding sources for over $1 Million. This was a collaborative effort with the Dean and Chair for COE and Blytheville schools, which will ultimately result in continued college preparatory programming for 300 students over a four-year period.

Annual Summer Leadership Conference – In a collaborated effort, the CRESC, ERZ, and College of Education provided the summer leadership institute for area school leaders. Approximately 60 school leaders from 23 districts of CRESC attended, including ERZ partner schools, July 9th and 10th. Topics: Effective Instruction, Drugs/Tobacco/Child Maltreatment, Professional Growth Plans, Teacher fair Dismissal and TESS.

Northeast Arkansas Schools Conference on Bullying - The ASU ERZ, Arkansas Department of Education, ASU - Office of Behavioral Research and Evaluation, The Center for Community Engagement, and three Education Service Cooperatives, CRESC, NEAESC and GRESSC, contracted the services of Mr. Kenneth S. Trump to serve as the keynote speaker. Mr. Trump is the President of National School Safety and Security Services, a Cleveland-based national consulting firm specializing in school security and emergency preparedness training, school security assessments, school emergency planning consultations, and related school safety and crisis consulting services. Mr. Tripp Walter, Staff Attorney, Arkansas School Resource presented the legal aspects and responsibilities for schools at the event held on Friday, September 26, 2014 on the ASU campus. The attendance was 139 with lunch served by Sodexo Catering at ASU. Following the meeting the Coops discussed the next steps on how the ASU and ERZ could provide support for future anti-bullying efforts. A follow-up workshop was held on September 24, 2014, based on that post-conference collaboration. The guest speaker was Betty K. Ennis, PLPC, who specializes in counseling. The workshop was a two-session event morning and afternoon. Learn specific bullying prevention strategies for elementary and middle schools. PD Hours were offered to participants.

Arkansas School Disaster Preparedness Conference for PK-12 Schools of Northeast Arkansas – This was a large gathering of Northeast Arkansas School Administrators and School Emergency Management Committee members and districts. The ASU ERZ, ASU College of Education & Behavioral Science, Northeast Arkansas Educational Service Cooperative, Crowley’s Ridge Education Service Cooperative, and Great Rivers Education Service Cooperative held the event at the ASU Centennial Hall on November 13, 2014, for 75 participants. The presenters were Dr. Debbie Persell, Regional Center for Disaster Preparedness Education /College of Nursing and Health Professions; Brent Cox, Assistant Professor of Disaster Preparedness/College of Nursing and Health Professions; Dr. Bill Smith, Executive Director of Marketing and Communication; Holly Hall, J.D., APR Associate Professor of Journalism/College of Media and Communications; and Ms. Cathy Riggins, Principal, Vilonia Middle School who presented Reality Check. The ASU Marketing and Communication Department presented Media During Disasters.

Autism Awareness Forum – Thursday, April 2, 2015 – The Department of Education Leadership, Curriculum, and Special Education, Education Renewal Zone and Jonesboro Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta, Inc., collaborated to make this event a success. Dr. Kimberley Davis, Committee Chair worked diligently in providing arrangement and speakers. Fifty participants were in attendance. Cookies and punch were served from 6:00 pm to 8:00 pm in A-State HPRSS, Room 245.
Henderson State University
Paulette Blacknall, Director, Southwest-A Education Renewal Zone

The Southwest-A Education Renewal Zone (ERZ)/Henderson is currently comprised of 13 school districts and 39 schools, four education service cooperatives (Dawson, South Central, De Queen-Mena, and Wilbur D. Mills), and one Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics (STEM) Center (South Arkansas Math and Science Center/Henderson). The ERZ has formed informal partnerships with one four-year university (Ouachita Baptist University) and three two-year colleges (National Park Community College/Hot Springs, University of Arkansas Community College/Hope, and College of the Ouachitas/Malvern) to strengthen college and career readiness in southwest Arkansas schools. These partnerships include the sharing of resources (human and physical), facilities, expertise, and technical assistance. Below are examples of programs collaboratively developed by/implemented in this P-20 partnership:

Southwest-A Education Renewal Zone/Henderson coordinated efforts between and among HSU departments, the HSU STEM Center, Dawson Education Service Cooperative, and partner schools and communities to seek and obtain funding such as the AT&T Aspire Grant ($771,548.96) and the ADE Career Readiness Planning Grant ($490,552.00). These grant funds will be used to expand and operate the Southwest Arkansas College Preparatory Academy at Henderson State/Ouachita Baptist Universities, National Park Community College, College of the Ouachitas, and the University of Arkansas Community College at Hope. Five hundred and eighty-seven (587) students are being served as compared to 40 students in the first cohort group in 2009. The program has increased from one district in 2009 to currently serving 20 school districts. Of these 22 districts, there are approximately four focus schools involved.

The Visiting Professor Program began in 2006 with professors from Henderson State University and teachers from three ERZ partner schools. The ERZ facilitates the development of partnerships between university faculty and public school teachers. This year, in addition to other visiting professor partnerships, there was an additional focus on developing partner teams of university professors, method students, and ALE classrooms in order to provide them with four science labs per month and to also conduct reflection sessions with the students after the lab. This involved 14 public school students, 2 public school instructors, one university professor, and six Biology Club students.

Professional Development Collaborative and Hot Topics is an ERZ sponsored program. It offers professional development opportunities for students, faculty, staff, and public school partner teachers and students during the fall and spring semesters annually. Targeted, research-based professional development designed to assist pre-service teachers to smoothly transition to public schools and designed to promote continuous learning is provided by Education Service Cooperatives, ADE, STEM Center, public school specialists, and other professional educators. This professional development collaborative has evolved to include non-traditional students and public university students. Non-practicing educators wanting to continue licensure status are also invited to participate. Topics are developed each year to support the educational needs of partner schools. The ERZ also assists with providing resources for Hot Topics’ eight days of required professional development for interns. The purpose of this required professional development is to expose pre-service teachers to topics that are on the forefront of education in Arkansas and to ensure full licensure status.

The ERZ sponsors the New Teacher Induction Program at Henderson to offer additional support to schools. This program provides mentoring for novice and career teachers. The ERZ collaborates with co-ops, public schools, and other service providers to offer a 2½ day Induction Retreat for all ERZ schools. TESS, PARCC, state-required professional development, and other requested professional development is offered to the new teachers. Participants are paired with mentors from education service cooperatives, Math and Science Center, and higher education who provide support, assistance, and formative feedback throughout the year. The ERZ office collaborates with education service cooperatives, Henderson faculty, and school district administrators to expand and approve the model and plan for delivery of services.
Southern Arkansas University
Dr. Roger C. Guevara, Director of Education Renewal Zone

The Southern Arkansas University Education Renewal Zone (ERZ) continues to be a leader in the southwest part of the state by facilitating structured, meaningful collaborative opportunities to improve public school performance and student achievement for various institutions of higher education including Southern Arkansas University (SAU), the University of Central Arkansas, and the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville. The SAU ERZ works in collaboration with three Education Service Cooperatives, the DeQueen/Mena Coop., the Southwest Arkansas Coop., and the South Central Coop. They also serve one partner priority school, and 11 partner focus schools, and the 14 districts that are official partners. They also have five associate partner districts that are involved in activities sponsored by the ERZ. The ERZ at SAU takes advantage of the rich STEM environment consisting of faculty members excited about grant writing and working with P-12 teachers and students. They provide rich professional development to help teachers prepare students for the next level of learning in fun and engaging activities. There is a strong collaborative network in this ERZ.

This ERZ writes and facilitates many grants in collaboration with the faculty at SAU. Among the professional development opportunities for teachers included:

- The South Arkansas Mathematics Standards Partnership is a grant funded project that provides 16 days of training for 40 regional math and science teachers.

- The South Arkansas Integrated Science and Mathematics Initiative, another grant funded consortium effort, providing 16 days of training to 44 regional math and science teachers.

- The Technology Bootcamp, funded by a Federal NCLB Improving Teacher Quality grant, allows 20 math and science teachers from participating districts to receive 10 days of technology training.

- The eSTEM Academy is an Arkansas Science and Technology Authority grant funded program offering a three day and two night residential learning experience at SAU to 5th grade students in two elementary schools in Texarkana.

- We can build it and make it go! This is a STEM project funded by a grant from the Women’s Foundation of Arkansas. Girls in grades 8 through 10 in Magnolia and El Dorado participate in engineering activities, specifically in robotics. Successful female STEM professionals mentor the girls.
• Effective Questioning Techniques and Essential Questions. Nine schools participated in this highly requested professional development.

The SAU ERZ Director orchestrated the statewide PARCC Summit that was held at Pulaski Technical College in North Little Rock. The 143 educational leaders who participated in this summit represented every area of the P-20 education spectrum and came together to frame key regional issues and learn about national trends concerning PARCC. It was a very well received summit.
The University of Arkansas
Elizabeth E. Smith, Director, Education Renewal Zone

The University of Arkansas Education Renewal Zone, housed in the College of Education and Health Professions, is committed to improving public school performance through collaboration between the UA, local public schools, the Northwest Education Service Cooperative, and the community. The UA ERZ provides opportunities for public schools and institutions of higher education to communicate, partner, and share resources through a variety of means. The focus of the UA ERZ is to respond to partner school needs, large and small.

Adopt-A-Classroom (AAC) was designed to provide opportunities for UA faculty/staff and P-12 teachers to collaborate. This program pairs a UA faculty/staff member with a P-12 teacher. The UA faculty/staff member teaches once a month in the P-12 teacher’s classroom. This outreach program allows:

- UA faculty/staff to offer up-to-date content knowledge and access to resources in their academic field to the public school classroom.
- UA faculty/staff gain knowledge about current pedagogy in K-12 schools and student development.
- K-12 students interact with a UA faculty/staff member, thus gaining knowledge about higher education and potential careers.

During the 2014-15 school year, 29 UA faculty/staff volunteered to partner with 27 P-12 teachers at 18 schools in seven school districts.

UA faculty/staff meets once a semester to share ideas and offer insight into how to have successful AAC partnerships. The AAC program officially concluded with a Celebration Reception on April 7, 2015. Many of the relationships formed will continue throughout the next school year. Another cohort of UA volunteers will be recruited in fall 2014 to begin new partnerships with local teachers.

The Northwest Arkansas P-20 Task Force is a group of more than 50 educators, with half representing P-12 schools and half representing the five institutions of higher education in Northwest Arkansas. This group meets once per semester, working collaboratively to build a meeting agenda that allows for discussion of issues pertinent to both groups, and related to education. This group is co-led by the ERZ Director and the Assistant Director NWAESC. The mission of the NWA P-20 Task Force is to improve the transitions of pre-kindergarten through post-graduate students in Northwest Arkansas by:

- Minimizing barriers
- Expanding conversations among education, industry, and community stakeholders
• Increasing student and parent awareness of the impact of educational opportunities and choice addressing the changing regional and global workforce needs.

Three sub-committees were recently established to promote greater dialogue about specific topics: teacher education, math alignment, and literacy alignment. Small groups of P-12 and postsecondary educators gathered to pinpoint precise areas of misalignment and offer suggestions for bridging the gaps.

E.Y.E. to the Future: Education, Youth, and the Economy - In June 2014 was a one-day regional P-20 education conference that focused on bringing educators, local industry representatives, and policymakers together.

The June 2014 event included roundtable discussions between educators and community members, a student panel, and sessions highlighting current innovative efforts in schools. In June 2015, the event will highlight more school-community partnership programs and include greater participation from local industry representatives.

The Digital Learning Consortium - In summer 2014, the UA initiated talks with local schools through the ERZ to create and deliver digital content needed by schools to comply with the Digital Learning Law. Since that time, educators from local schools and the UA have been working collaboratively to form a digital learning consortium. This group (now co-led by the ERZ director and the Assistant Director of the NWAESC) will guide the process of creating three to five digital courses that will be available on a web-based platform for any school in Northwest Arkansas to use at no cost.

In January 2015, 17 local superintendents were surveyed to assess needs related to digital learning; specifically what courses are most needed. In the summer, three to five local teachers will receive stipends provided by the UA to develop digital courses alongside UA instructional designers. Courses should be ready to be utilized by schools by fall 2016.

Western Arkansas Education Renewal Zone

The Adopt-a-Professor Initiative at UAFS has been modeled after the Adopt-a-Classroom program through the UA-Fayetteville ERZ office. Planning for this UAFS ERZ program began in the 2013-14 academic year and continued through Fall 2014. The program officially launched spring 2015. This program solicits volunteer professors from UAFS and volunteer P-12 teachers from our ERZ partner schools. Teachers and professors are matched primarily by content area and secondarily by age/grade level.

In the spring of 2015, the initiative’s inaugural semester, 11 UAFS professors and 15 P-12 teachers participated in 35 completed learning engagements. Of those 35 engagements 30 were at the schools, 4 visits to UAFS, and 1 day of visiting several community locations. During these 35 visits, the following contacts were made:

| Students | 1075 |
| Teachers | 47 |
| UAFS Faculty | 37 |
| UAFS Staff | 26 |
| Pre-Service Teachers/UAFS Students | 14 |
| Building/District personnel | 3 |
| Parents | 20 |
| Community Members | 5 |

In addition to the 35 engagements held this semester, the ERZ hosted a professor orientation for the professors going out into the schools, which was facilitated by the ERZ Director, Executive Director of the School of Education, and the science specialist with the campus STEM Center. The ERZ Director met as needed with principals and teachers interested in learning more about the program. The semester closed with a Celebration Reception on May 4, 2015 on the UAFS campus.

This is the third completed year that the River Valley College and Career Readiness Preparatory Program (CCRPP). This is the third year of this ADE funded partnership and the grant proposal has been submitted for next year’s funding. The River Valley CCRPP consists of Fort Smith, Van Buren, Alma, and Greenwood School Districts and UAFS as represented by the ERZ. In addition to these four school districts, 11 other smaller districts are served by one of the four partner high schools, which means a total of 15 districts benefit from this program. Four two-week ACT prep sessions are held during the year (three during the school year and one during summer). Approximately 750 students participate during the year. For each of these 4 sessions an information day on the UAFS campus is planned; however, due to the academic calendar some years there have been less than 4 UAFS Days. Students register for sessions on topics such as admissions, financial aid, career services (preparing for scholarship interviews),
Students participating in the River Valley CCRPP increase their ACT score by an average of 2 points. Funding amounts for the past three years and the ask amount for the upcoming year are noted below.

- 2012-13 secured grant for $338,976
- 2013-14 secured grant for $173,000
- 2014-15 secured grant for $258,193
- 2015-16 ask amount of grant $311,455

Each year the UAFS ERZ hosts the Curriculum Advisory Conference in consultation with the UAFS School of Education. The target audience for this conference is the university’s pre-service teachers (approximately 600 students). The focus of the conference is based on current and pertinent topics in education. The last Curriculum Advisory Conference proved to be the most successful conference yet, as the ERZ was able to host Harry and Rosemary Wong. Not only did the conference include UAFS’s pre-service teachers and faculty, but also for the first time, the event was opened to career teachers in ERZ partner schools and other regional schools, as well as pre-service teachers and faculty from area institutions of higher education.

For the conference this fall, the UAFS ERZ will replicate the success of the Wongs’ visit by hosting Mr. Taylor Mali, nationally known teacher advocate, writer, and poet for the next Curriculum Advisory Conference. Mali is a four-time National Poetry Slam champion and the author of four books, including What Teachers Make: In Praise of the Greatest Job in the World. Since 1998, over one thousand people have become teachers after reading or listening to Taylor Mali’s passionate poems about his experiences teaching middle school, high school, and college.

Following Mr. Mali speaking and book signing, an invitation-only session will be led by Mr. Mali. This session will be a writers’ workshop of select area secondary teachers and their students. In this session teachers and a few of their students write, create, and learn together. Also included in this session will be pre-service teachers with concentrations in English Language Arts, and selected students from the creative writing program at UAFS.

UAFS hosted the inaugural STEM WARS on campus the last week of May 2015. STEM WARS is a district-wide engineering design challenge that engages students in learning science, technology, engineering, and mathematics through an integrated, problem-solving approach. The UAFS ERZ has partnered with Fort Smith Public Schools on this program.

- Day One featured grades 3 and 4, with approximately 700 students engaging in 3 possible design challenges (a mechanized scoop to perform specific tasks, a wind powered car to travel the farthest distance, or a structure to withstand a simulated tornado).

- Day Two featured grades 5 and 6, with approximately 925 students engaging in 4 possible design challenges (strongest table made out of newspapers, egg drop safety structure from 1.5 meters, solar powered vehicle, or water tower that can withstand simulated earthquake).

- Day Three featured grades 7 through 9, with approximately 1,000 students engaging in 4 possible design challenges (design and construct boat that can travel 8 feet, design a Rube Goldberg style contraption that will accomplish specific objectives, design safety racer—built for speed but will protect egg cargo, or design an irrigation system that will move water from one source to another and perform 2 different functions).

UAFS professors assisted with refereeing the competition. Community science professionals (engineers, IT specialists, biologist, and environmental scientists) volunteered for judging. This has the potential of becoming an annual event. It also has the potential to expand to a regional competition.
University of Arkansas at Monticello
Tracie A. Jones, Director, Southeast/UAM Education Renewal Zone

The UAM/Southeast ERZ partners with 47 public schools (15 districts). Of those 47 schools, one is a needs improvement priority school, nine are needs improvement focus schools, 36 are needs improvement schools, and one is an achieving school. The ERZ at UAM facilitated a discussion and review of the ERZ Vision Statement in the UAM School of Education, STEM Center, and ERZ Stakeholders Meeting held on March 31, 2015. The UAM/Southeast ERZ was a very active ERZ this year, completing 24 separate projects in support of their partner schools. One of the major focuses for this ERZ is the Leadership Coaching training of administrators. Their collaborative understanding through their work with school improvement and scholastic audit is that leadership is a precursor to meaningful school turnaround.

In this report, four professional development activities and one STEM project are being highlighted. The following activities were a snapshot of the projects facilitated/supported by the UAM ERZ:

- The Professors as Partners Project continues as a program that supports ERZ partners (schools/districts). During 2014-2015, the Professors as Partners Project was re-emphasized for the UAM School of Education (SOE) faculty. Each SOE professor was assigned a district to contact monthly through phone calls, visits, and/or emails. Professors visited classrooms as experts, served as resources for materials and support, and modeled. As of January 28, 2015, there had been 319 cases of documented support and over 300 visits by UAM faculty (Arts/Humanities, Math/Science, School of Education), STEM Center Specialist, and ERZ Director.

- The Leadership Coaching Level I training was offered as a collaborative effort for UAM faculty as well as partner/associate partner school districts. This training was held on May 29-30 and June 4-5, 2014. There were 28 attendees representing UAM, the UAM STEM Center, and partner/associate partner schools. Leadership coaching training supports the development of instructional leaders who can impact greater student achievement and public school performance.

  28 Attendees
  2 UAM faculty/staff
  1 STEM Center Specialist
  1 ERZ Director
  24 attendees from 7 school districts

- Leadership Coaching Level II was held on December 2-3, 2014 and January 28-29, 2015, with 16 attendees. Leadership Coaching training supports the further development of instructional leaders who impact greater student achievement and public school performance in our area.

16 Attendees:
1 UAM faculty
1 ERZ Director
14 attendees from 4 school districts

Note: Since the Leadership Coaching training began in May 2013, UAM ERZ and partners have trained 56 school leaders and university faculty in Leadership Coaching for High Performance Level I, and 38 school leaders and university faculty in Leadership Powerful Coaching Level II.

- The ERZ partnered with the UAM STEM Center in the writing of the NCLB Statistics and Probability Summer Institute grant application. The SP6-8 Grant was written for $72,518.07 to support content and pedagogy training for teachers in grades 6-8 focusing on Statistics and Probability. Institute will be held June 2015 for 8 days with 2 days of follow-up training in the fall and classroom visits by the trainers throughout the year.

- The UAM ERZ also collaborated with 8 academic departments at UAM and Drew Central Schools to plan and host the fall 8th Grade College Experience Day on October 28, 2014 for 36 students, and again on April 23, 2015, for 74 students. Students were divided into career clusters connected with their KUDER test results. The clusters were able to visit with a UAM faculty member from that career area to learn about skills, classes, careers, and expectations. They were also able to have a tour of the campus by a UAM Admission representative and a tour of the UAM Library from one of the Librarians. The school then provided them lunch in the UAM cafeteria to complete their college experience morning. The Drew Central Spring 8th Grade College Experience Day was attended by 110 total students, 6 Drew Central faculty members, and 8 UAM departments/units on campus.

Brief Explanation for Requesting Each Waiver (to enable the State Board of Education to make an informed decision)

6-15-902(a) Grading scale -- Exemptions -- Special education classes.

Arkansas Department Of Education Rules Governing Uniform Grading Scales For Public Secondary Schools And For Optional Use In Public Elementary Schools Section 4.00 Grading scale and numerical values

Waivers from Arkansas Department of Education Rules and Regulations Governing Standards for Accreditation of Arkansas Public Schools 12.02, Grading

Reason for Request: Special Education is designed instruction and support for students identified with a disability requiring an individually designed instruction program. The uniqueness of students qualifying for special education services presents needed opportunities for differentiated lesson delivery along with a differentiated grading scale, a scale designed to reduce undo stress or pressure on students already dealing with exceptional circumstances.

The district is also in the process of seeking a Conversion Charter for its high school. This conversion is necessitated by the district's research into the college graduation rate of its recent graduates. In short, the district has determined it needs to expand its Career, Trades, and Vocational offerings. This expansion may require the addition of nongraded, in the sense of the traditional grading scale, student performance evaluative strategies.

The district's intent is not to preclude students with special or other needs from such course offerings.

6-16-102 School day.

6-18-210. Definitions. (Planned Instructional Time)

6-18-211 Mandatory attendance for students in grades nine through twelve.

Arkansas Department Of Education Rules Governing The Arkansas Mandatory Attendance Requirements For Students In Grades Nine Through Twelve Sections 3.00 Definitions and Section 4.00 Implementation.

Reason for Request: The district seeks to allow the opportunity to individualize instruction for all students. A student possessing the ability to complete required coursework in less than six hours a day could have the option to enroll in a specialized educational program outside the school district or seek employment to assist in future educational expenses. Conversely, students unable to achieve mastery within a six hour day could benefit from an extended educational day. Additionally, the present state and national emphasis on utilizing technology for instruction might create scenarios where a student might benefit from blended instruction at atypical school hours.
The district notes that while 6-18-211 is not specifically listed in ARV's granted waivers, the 'plain language' of 6-18-210, "As used in this section and § 6-18-211" clearly includes provisions found in 6-18-211; i.e., the meaning of 6-18-210 is defined in 6-18-211. That they are companion pieces may also be found in 6-18-211(d), which states, "Nothing in this section and § 6-18-210:"

6-15-1004 Qualified teachers in every public school classroom.

6-17-309 Licensure -- Waiver

6-17-401 Teacher's license requirement.

6-17-902 Definitions. ("Teacher")

6-17-908 Teacher's salary fund- Authorized disbursements

6-17-919 Warrants void without valid license and contract.

Arkansas Department Of Education Rules And Regulations Governing Standards For Accreditation Of Arkansas Public Schools 10.02, Class Size and Teaching Load and 10.02.5, Requiring that teachers in Grades 7-12 not be assigned more than 150 students and classes should not exceed 30 students except for exceptional cases or courses that lend themselves to large group instruction

Arkansas Department Of Education Rules Governing Standards For Accreditation Of Arkansas Public Schools And School Districts 15.03, Licensure and Renewal

ADE Rules Governing Educator Licensure

Reason for the Request: In an effort to prepare students to be both college and career ready, the district requests the ability to employ instructors, with specialized skills and abilities, to teach non-core classes. This request is driven by the difficulty of obtaining licensed employees in certain trade and vocational career offerings.

6-17-1501 et seq. Teacher Fair Dismissal Act

Reason for the Request: The district's purpose in applying for a waiver of 6-17-1501 et seq., the Teacher Fair Dismissal Act, is only to request certain provisions of 6-17-1510 be waived, namely (d)(1) which specifies, "(d) (1) The exclusive remedy for any nonprobatory teacher aggrieved by the decision made by the board of directors shall be an appeal therefrom to the circuit court of the county in which the school district is located, within seventy-five (75) days of the date of written notice of the action of the board of directors." The district requests only that nonprobatory teachers have the same conditions as probationary teachers as referenced earlier in the statue found in (a)(2), "The board of directors' decision with regard to nonrenewal of a probationary teacher shall be final." The district seeks this relief in light of the diminishing pool of qualified teaching applicants requiring that districts seek early to fill vacant positions. Having this waiver granted would afford all employees the same status of having final determination of their termination or nonrenewal decisions rest with the same body that offered the original contract of employment.

Arkansas Department Of Education Rules And Regulations Governing Standards For Accreditation Of Arkansas Public Schools 10.02 Class Size and Teaching Load and 10.02.5 Requiring that teachers in Grades 7-12 not be assigned more than 150 students and classes should not exceed 30 students except for exceptional cases or courses that lend themselves to large group instruction
Waivers from Other Arkansas Department of Education Rules
Reason for the Request: Gentry School District has a student enrollment history of a yearly +/- 2.5% enrollment fluctuation. This has caused the district to be required to contract addition staff for a “one child over” the pertinent sub-standard. The expenses of such could better be used by the district for other instructional purposes. Additionally the need for additional staff usually cannot be determined until the school term has begun.

5. 6-17-203 Committees on personal policies-members
6. 6-17-309 Certification to teach grade or subject matter-Exceptions-Waivers

Brief Explanation for Requesting Each Waiver (to enable the State Board of Education to make an informed decision)
6-10-106 - By modifying the calendar days it will reduce the long summer breaks when some students suffer learning losses. Modifying the calendar will allow students to have opportunities to have a positive environment while living in a high poverty area. There will be a continuous of building a positive school culture.

6-13-601 et seq., 6-13-619(a)(1),6-13-619(c)(1)(A) - Due to a long history of local school boards' inability to make sound decisions relative to academic distress, school processes,and that many times did not support the superintendent's recommendations, the Arkansas State Board of Education decided to dissolve the local board of education in the Lee County School District. Since that time, under state control, the Lee County School District has made tremendous gains in meeting and exceeding the educational needs of our students as well as the fiscal requirements of our academic institution. It is our desire to remain with the initial decision of the Arkansas State Board of Education and continue to work closely with an "Advisory Task Force" which consists of parents, students, staff, teachers, community members, and other elected officials. Furthermore, historically speaking, our local school board has consistently displayed personal agendas and long-standing communal vendettas. If reinstated so quickly after state takeover, it would be a grave detriment to the students, faculty, and staff of the Lee County School District. It is our endeavor to always forge forward with the pursuit of educating our students to become productive citizens of society. We are requesting that the current board at least receives a year of training before being the sole governing body for the 2015-2016 school year.
6-17-203 Committees on personal policies-members-Over the years this committee continues to not work with the committee members as well as the superintendent and several times the Office of Intensive Support has had to move in and offer assertive leadership to this committee.

6-17-309 Due to teacher retention it is hard for the district to retain and recruit teachers in specific areas. We would benefit from certified teachers being able to teach in other areas.

Waiver (ALP/ALCP)

4-4.10 The Office of Educator Licensure may grant a public school, agency, or organization a one-year waiver of the requirements of Sections 4-4.01 through 4-4.09 if it imposes an undue hardship in that a school is unable to timely fill a vacant position with a qualified individual licensed in the required licensure content area and level of licensure.

4-4.11 A request for waiver shall be submitted by the superintendent of the public school district or director of the charter school and shall include:

4-4.11.1 A listing of all licensed employees employed by the school district or charter school, including for each licensed employee:

4-4.11.1.1 Social Security number;

4-4.11.1.2 Current licensure area(s);

4-4.11.1.3 Whether the employee is currently employed in an out-of-area position, and if so, whether the position requires a highly-qualified teacher;
4-4.11.1.4 Any prior completed Additional Licensure Plan(s) (ALP); and

4-4.11.2 A justification for the waiver documenting the efforts of the district or charter school to find a fully licensed, highly qualified employee. Districts will not have to verify re-advertising for the second and third years for a position, as long as the individual holds a valid ALP or ALCP;

4-4.11.3 A written plan with timelines for completion of the ALP or ALCP requirements; and

4-4.11.4 If a waiver was granted for the same position in the prior school year, evidence that the ALP or ALCP plan timelines are being met in accordance with Sections 4-4.02, 4-4.03, or 4-4.08.

4-4.12 A school, district, agency, or organization shall annually apply for renewal of the waiver each additional year the employee is working under an approved ALP or ALCP. The one (1)-year waiver may be renewed two (2) times, for a maximum of three (3) years of waiver for the same position, so long as the ALP or ACLP issued to the employee remains valid and the employee meets the ALP or ALCP plan timelines.

4-4.13 The district superintendent or charter school director shall send written notice of the assignment of an employee to an out-of-area position to the parent or guardian of each student in the employee’s classroom no later than thirty (30) instructional days after the date of the assignment.

4-4.14 The final decision regarding the granting of a waiver rests with the State Board.

Substitute Teachers

4-4.15 Since it is sometimes necessary to utilize the services of substitute personnel, public schools should select competent individuals who can be entrusted with the instructional responsibilities of the school. As much care should be given to the recruitment, selection, and utilization of those who will be used as substitutes as is given to licensed personnel.
4-4.15.1 A person employed as a temporary substitute for a licensed teacher in a public school shall:

4-4.15.1.1 Be a high school graduate; or

4-4.15.1.2 Hold a high school equivalency test certificate.

4-4.15.2.2 A current Standard Teaching License, Ancillary License, Provisional License, Administrator’s License, or Lifetime Teaching License issued by the State of Arkansas.

4-4.15.3 A public school shall request a waiver for each semester, not to exceed two (2) consecutive semesters to employ a substitute teacher whenever a class of students will be receiving instructions from the substitute teacher for longer than thirty (30) consecutive instructional days unless the substitute is fully licensed in Arkansas for areas in which the substitute is employed.

4-4.15.4 A public school may not avoid a waiver request by:

4-4.15.4.1 Relying on the license of another teacher or administrator in the building who is not the assigned substitute teacher and is not actively teaching the class;

4-4.15.4.2 Terminating the services of a substitute teacher(s) prior to the thirty-first (31st) instructional day;

4-4.15.4.3 Granting the substitute teacher one (1) or more days of personal or administrative leave; or

4-4.15.4.4 Using any other method of circumventing the intent of the law or these rules.

4-4.15.5 The district superintendent or charter school director shall send written notice of the assignment of a substitute teacher to an out-of-area position to the parent or guardian of each student in the teacher’s classroom no later than thirty (30) consecutive instructional days after the date of the assignment.
4-4.15.6 This Section 4-4.15 shall not apply to non-degreed vocational-technical teachers.

4-4.15.7 The superintendent of a public school district or director of a charter school may apply for a waiver from the State Board if the requirements set forth in this Section 4-4.15 impose an undue hardship on the school or district.

4-4.15.7.1 A written application for waiver shall be submitted to the Department as soon as an undue hardship is determined by the superintendent or charter school director. The application letter shall include:

4-4.15.7.1.1 A justification of need for the waiver;

4-4.15.7.1.2 Documentation that a degreed or properly-licensed individual is not available to be employed;

4-4.15.7.1.3 Instructional area that will be assigned to the substitute teacher, and

4-4.02.8.1.4 The length of time the substitute will be employed.

4-4.15.7.2 Waivers for use of a substitute teacher for longer than thirty (30) consecutive instructional days may be granted for only one (1) semester but may be renewed for a second (2nd) semester. Such waivers are to be submitted immediately once the substitute has been in the classroom for thirty-one (31) days.

4-4.15.7.3 Applications for waivers shall be reviewed by the Department and presented to the State Board for its decision.

4-4.15.7.4 The final decision regarding the granting of this waiver will rest with the State Board.

4-4.15.7.5 Any school district or charter school granted this waiver will be reported in the Department’s annual school district or school report card.

| Respondent: Cynthia Lowe | Date: 7/29/15 | Comment (Middle Childhood Praxis Exams):
I am a 2014 graduate of Arkansas State University, graduating with a Bachelor of Science degree in Mid-Level Education with an emphasis on English Language Arts and Social Studies. Since 2014, I have attempted to take the Praxis II Mid-Level English Language Arts exam several times and have not passed it yet. In the past four years of my college education, I have taken numerous classes over English Language Arts. I have never received a low grade and graduated with honors. In all of my observation classes for ASU, I have been placed in an ELA classroom. I have always wanted to be an English teacher and have tutored several students to further help them achieve my love and understanding of English classes. When I began taking the Praxis II ELA exams, I never imagined that I would fail the test. These tests are so expensive that I knew I could not afford to take them more than once. I have three children and my husband is the only person working in our household. Money is very tight. I bought the study guides and books needed to pass the Praxis exams and took dozens of practice exams online. Once again, I failed the test. This discouraged me so much that I almost gave up ever taking it again, but my children talked me into taking it one more time. When I took the exam in June, I was as prepared as I could be. I had read three books, bought ebook help guides, and took more practice tests over the internet before I went to take the exam. When I saw the Constructed Response question on the exam, I was so happy, because I had studied almost the exact question and knew it very well. To my surprise, I scored above average on the reading but only scored a 5 on the Constructed Response which scored below the average score! I was completely devastated. I consider myself very well informed on the English Language Art content area and feel that if I cannot pass; I do | ADE Response:
Changing the requirements for middle-level licensure would be considered a “substantive change” from the proposed rules and would require the rules to be re-submitted for public comment. The current emergency rules expire in November; therefore, permanent rules must be approved prior to the expiration of the emergency rules. Re-submission for public comment would not allow time for permanent rule approval prior to the expiration of the emergency rule. Therefore, the Department will convene a group of stakeholders including Dean’s from the Colleges of Education, the Arkansas Department of Higher Education, teacher and administrator representatives to review the middle level licensure requirements and take appropriate action. |

At that point, the test had not been change. We did all content knowledge and the PLT. I took both in one day, passing English the first time. I later retested and passed PLT. At that point, I qualified for a provisional, 1 year license. I continued retesting content areas, hoping to pass one. I was hired and had tests scheduled at that time--all resulting in a fail. My name is Rebecca Ward, I graduated from Arkansas State University in May of 2014 with a Mid Level Ed Bachelor degree. I am having a problem with the Middle School English Language Arts praxis II test. I have taken it 9 times and a cost of $139 per test. The ninth time they raised the price to $146. The passing score is a 164 I have scored a 163 and 162. When contested the score I had to pay an additional $55 for them to tell me they would not give me 1 point so that I could finally receive my license. If you add this up and include the cost of the Praxis I, PLT, and the Social Studies middle school exam, I have spent over $1500 to ETS and I still do not have a teaching license and I have lost my 4th grade teaching job. In the past four years of my college education, I have taken numerous classes over English Language Arts. I have never received a low grade and graduated Magna Cum Laude. I have never in my life failed a test and to have failed this test numerous times is disheartening. When I began taking the Praxis II ELA exams, I never imagined that I would fail the test. I am paying $140.00 each time I take this test. I believe this is the highest price paid for a Praxis exam. exams and took dozens of practice exams online. Once again, I failed the test. This discouraged me so much that I almost gave up ever taking it again, but as I thought about the 4 years that I worked my tail off achieving a degree I decided to attempt the test one more time. When I took the exam in April, I was as prepared as I could be. I had read the books, bought ebook help guides, and took more practice tests over the internet before I went to take the exam. When I saw the questions on the exam, I was so happy, because I had studied most of the questions and knew the answers. To my surprise, I missed the passing score again! I was completely devastated.

I know that my fellow graduates are experiencing the same aggravation having failed this particular ELA exam and losing their jobs as a result. A few have decided to choose other career paths and this saddens me because Arkansas is losing some really great teachers due to this exam. I do not know what the problem is with this particular exam that “nobody is passing it.” (Mary Bradley, ASU Education Dept.) I believe this problem could be remedied by either revising the ELA Mid-Level Exam or lowering the cost of the exam so those that have to take it multiple times can afford it. Also, I believe that not only is the test harder, but the passing score is higher than it was previously. It was 145 and now is 160. The test is harder and the passing score higher it is as if it is not meant to be passed. Many test takers would have passed this exam on their first attempt had the passing score not been raised.

I believe by talking to fellow educators and listening to the news that Arkansas will soon face a teacher shortage if this problem is not remedied. I would like the Arkansas Department of Education to help by lowering passing scores on the Praxis II Exams and or changing the requirements for a Mid-level Standard Teaching License to passing one content area (that would be the subject the teacher would teach) and the PLT exam. Arkansas needs good educators and I feel that requiring them to pass a test that is apparently not passable in order to obtain a license is a mistake.

each and every time, but is to the point of not knowing what to study and her self confidence is at an all time low. We have purchased every paper book and every practice test online to try and prepare. Each test is different and one does not know questions missed, so it makes it VERY difficult in knowing how to prepare and continue studying.

She has two open response questions at the end of each test and has ALWAYS made the same score 7/12 on all 6 tests. The last test she took, she missed by 3 points, which could have easily been one multiple choice question.

I do not feel this type test helps a graduate that has went four years to college to become a teacher. My point is, she is NOT trying to be a rocket scientist, just a middle school teacher. I do know it isn't just her, for many have had problems passing these tests, therefore missing out on teaching opportunities. I believe this is a problem that needs to be examined and hopefully quickly fixed. A solution would be to pass 1 PLT and 1 multiple content test.

Thank you for your time and I hope you will consider this matter very earnestly.

I have been an educator in the state of AR for 27 years. I have my masters degree in reading and recently became a certified dyslexia therapist. All of my years have been spent educating students in grades 4-7. At the time of my certification, I did not have to spend hundreds of dollars to take FOUR separate tests to be certified in the areas of literacy, math, social studies, and science. The requirement to take the Praxis in each of these areas, especially to teach 4th-6th grade is absurd.

While I know all of the required tests are very difficult, the English/LA exam is off the charts! I have seen the test-prep study guides and been told some of the questions asked on the exam. The amount and type of information they are expected to have for the ELA test is ridiculous! All of my years of teaching have been spent in the area of literacy, and I would hate to think my certification would rely on this test. The

I would like to share my opinion on the current testing for new teachers. I believe an injustice is being done to them. Many are graduating with high marks, excelling, and getting jobs only to lose the job over a test score. I myself lost an excellent teaching partner this last year because of it. If testing is going to determine whether or not a college graduate will receive a license then they should be given better feedback on their test results both positive and negative. If current classroom teachers treated students the way I saw my former partner treated, parents would be at the schools complaining continually about poor teaching habits. Many teachers would probably lose their jobs. I feel that the practices of praxis testing administration needs to be re-evaluated. Arkansas is losing many great teachers because of a score on a test. | ADE Response:

I had an excellent experience in my Field studies as well as in Internship. I had wonderful feedback from my supervisors, both clinical and university, but I have struggled with these ridiculous Praxis exams.

I started in November 2014 taking the exams. I took the PLT 5-9 two times before passing and took the Mid Level Social Studies 5089 five times before passing!! Now I have taken Mid Level English 5047 six times and I have not received my scores yet on that test, so as of now I have not passed that one. I have been out nearly $1000 on tests!!! I cannot afford that kind of money for tests, but I have no choice but to pay it. These tests are so expensive anyways! I know several, several people who have had to take the tests because they have no other choice.

The subject matter on the Social Studies exam is so broad there is no way you can study and prepare yourself for everything. Some of the things on the tests were not ever mentioned on the study guides listed on the Praxis website.

The English exam is the same way. Some of the excerpts in the Reading portion are no where near fit for Middle School students, but for high school! I went to college for English and Social Studies, so if there is a problem with me passing a test over content I know, then something must be wrong.

| Comment (Special Education Licensure Options): | On behalf of the Greenwood School District, I would like to commend the Arkansas Department of Education and its proposal to amend the Rules Governing Educator Licensure. I would like to express my ardent support for the provisions that would allow for a Special Education Resource endorsement that consists of completion of the SPED 101 Academy and successful completion of the content assessment for special education. I believe this provision will:
  - Encourage more teachers to pursue advanced training
  - Build capacity in an endorsement area that has long been identified as a “Critical Shortage Area”
  - Provide quality teachers for students with special needs |

The Greenwood School District has implemented an “Integrated Model” which utilizes teachers that are dually certified in a specific content area and in SPED. This model has been very successful for our district; however it has been difficult to implement this model without placing teachers on Additional Licensure Plans. For example, out of eleven ALP’s to be submitted to the ADE for 2015-2016--nine are in the area of Special Education. It is my hope that if these rules are approved—that teachers that were slated to start an ALP in 2015-2016 (or are under a current | ALP from years past) will be afforded the same opportunity to add an endorsement as prescribed by these revisions.

In closing, it my hope that the State Board of Education will approve the proposed rules regarding Special Education licensure.

| Brandi Caldwell | 8/11/15 | I am sending this email on behalf of my 4 year old son, Greyson. As the parent of a child diagnosed with severe ASD, I am concerned that the state is considering allowing anyone that has not completed the necessary special education coursework to teach any child with special needs. It takes a special type of person to be a teacher. It takes someone who is so much more than special to teach children with disabilities. It is not something everyone is able to do or handle, no matter if they are already a teacher or not.

I strongly recommend that you do what is best for our children and allow them to have the most qualified and trained teachers possible. Don't they deserve the best? Would you ask a general surgeon to go in and operate on someone's brain? Why not? I mean, they're both surgeons.....

Please think about our children and their futures when you make this decision. You are directly affecting their lives and future. |

ADE Response:
We all want the most qualified professionals working with our most vulnerable students, and that is the goal of everyone involved in these proposed licensure changes. The changes are necessary to ensure our students have qualified teachers. Right now, we have many special education classrooms with long-term substitutes or staffed with individuals on an Additional Licensure Plan with no special education experience or coursework prior to entering the classroom. These individuals often do not complete the plan after the first year, which perpetuates the problem. The proposed additions to special education licensure tracks (MAT, “testing out” and “program of study” for resource endorsement) require an intense “Special Education Academy” (the equivalent of 3 credit hours), which will be designed and provided by IHEs to address Council for Exceptional Children (CEC) competencies that were identified as essential for individuals teaching special education for the first time with no prior coursework. The competencies were chosen.
by a multimember committee, which included IHEs, special education teachers who had entered special education on an Additional Licensure Plan and special education supervisors. The competencies are grounded in special education law, appropriate assessment and intervention, collaborating with general educators in making appropriate accommodations, etc. The program of study track would only allow someone to provide resource, co-taught, or indirect services, but would require more preparation before entering the classroom than the current ALP requires (which is not restricted to resource/co-taught classrooms). Ideal candidates for alternative pathways are content teachers (for testing out and endorsement option) and degreed professionals for the MAT option (not currently allowed in a MAT program) who have a passion for teaching students with disabilities and the rich content knowledge to ensure these children achieve at the highest level possible. These alternative pathways will eliminate barriers for dedicated professionals to enter special education and hopefully create the opportunity for more educators with a true gift and passion for working with students with disabilities to become special educators.

After further consideration, the Department will remove the testing out provision 2-3.05 and address it later after reviewing data and findings from the Special Education Task

Burnette, Partners for Inclusive Communities | Date:
8/12/15 | Comment (Special Education Licensure Options):
These comments are provided from Partners for Inclusive Communities, Arkansas’ University Center for Developmental Disabilities. We are very concerned about the proposed licensure change that will allow teachers to become qualified to teach special education without completion of an appropriate course of study, by testing out with the Praxis in SPED. It seems clear that passing one written exam is insufficient evidence that a person is qualified to respond to the broad and unique needs of special education students seen in today’s schools. Even if the proposed rule is restricted to teachers in resource settings, the risk of having inadequately prepared teachers is great. In fact, in small rural schools the resource teacher may see a broad range of students from those with learning disabilities to those with severe disabilities because all students are served in the same classroom. We believe that students in special education deserve highly qualified teachers with a range of coursework and practicum experience that equips them to utilize evidence-based practices that can only be learned in an appropriate course of study.
While we recognize that there exists a shortage of teachers for special education, we would encourage the ADE to examine alternative responses that address the underlying issues, such as excess paperwork or the need for incentives. It seems that it might be possible for the state to target tuition incentives to encourage students to select a career in special education or to select underserved geographic areas. These incentives could be organized like many educational | Force and other stakeholders. | ADE Response:
See the response to Brandi Caldwell. Also, providing additional tracks to licensure is only one strategy for recruiting and retaining qualified special educators. The ADE will be collecting and analyzing data and working with stakeholders, including the newly formed Special Education Task Force, to study trends and identify possible reasons (such as those mentioned in the comment) teachers are not staying in special education. Based on this review, strategies to address the identified issues will be implemented and the licensure pathways may need to be reconsidered. | leave policies, students receive enhanced tuition scholarships if the agree to teach special education for an agreed upon length of time in an agreed upon location. If the commitment is not fulfilled, the student pays back the tuition incentive.

We believe that allowing unqualified teachers to be licensed will create more problems, including safety risk for students and teachers. For example, without a sophisticated skill set for responding to health complications such as seizures or behavioral complications, students and teachers are at risk of injury or death. The range and complications faced by special education teachers is more broad than ever before. Now is not the time to require less skills professionals in the classroom.

During the public hearing, we heard testimony from regular education teachers who had lost their jobs because of a more stringent standard set for gen ed licensure. It seems curious, and possibly discriminatory, that the ADE is raising the standard for Gen Ed teachers while it lowers the standard for SP ED teachers. This seems to send a message that special education students are less important somehow, a message we find offensive.

We urge the ADE to reconsider this direction and maintain a high standard for the qualifications of all special education teachers.

Additional comment on 8/14/15:
My name is Karan Burnette and I am the Associate Director of Partners for Inclusive Communities, the Director of the Arkansas Autism Partnership (the States Medicaid Waiver program for young children with ASD) and a member of the Arkansas Legislative Task Force on Autism. I am writing to express my concern about the proposed change in licensure for special education teachers. While I understand that we need to address the shortage of special education teachers, I do not believe lowering the standards for qualifications is the answer. I believe that a complete course of study is necessary to prepare teachers for the challenges they face with the variety of students they will encounter in special education. I am especially concerned about students with autism in this proposed scenario. Given the recent CDC prevalence data in Arkansas that reflects that 1:40 boys and 1:172 girls may be impacted by this disorder, it is critical that we continue to provide highly qualified professionals to meet their needs. Teachers need to be competent in the implementation of evidence-based strategies in order to provide a Free Appropriate Public Education to these students. I do not believe that this can be accomplished with one 3-hour course or inservice training hours. I do not believe that taking the Praxis in SPED will determine competence for this role. I am gravely concerned that without an appropriate and comprehensive course of study, both students and staff will be at risk.

I would encourage the ADE to reconsider this direction and address the shortage in a different manner. I think a task force to look at the reasons why we have a shortage (excessive paperwork, lack of support for behavioral challenges, inadequate staffing, etc.) and to develop a plan to address the root cause(s) would be appropriate. Looking at creating incentives for teachers to select SPED as a direction would be useful.

District instruction, a building principal and teacher. During my 30 years, I have been fortunate to work in a district that attracts quality teachers. We rarely have shortage areas, except occasionally in special education, and at times, secondary mathematics and chemistry/physics.

I was delighted to see that changes might take place in special education licensure and I greatly support making the process to become a special education teacher easier. As I mentioned, special education is an area that we do sometimes see a shortage of licensed candidates. This is the area that requires we use the ALP process to get people licensed. What I have seen is, the difference in a great regular classroom teacher and a great special education teacher does not exist; a great teacher is a great teacher because (s)he focus on individual students and what they need. The main difference in a regular teacher moving from the regular classroom to special education is learning the paperwork and processes, which is about the same for a new special education teacher graduating from college. There have been times hiring committees preferred hiring a great regular teacher over a fully-licensed special education teacher that we did not think would provide our students with a quality education.

I hope this process becomes easier. Speaking for the students at Beebe, I think it would be a positive and beneficial move for us.

| Respondent: Billy Jackson, Superintendent, South Side Bee Branch School District | Date: 8/13/15 | Comment (Special Education Licensure Options): Please allow the new special education requirements! In a rural school district it's sometimes very difficult to hire special education personnel. Many times we've had staff members to return to school and receive the licensure. With the new requirements it will be much easier for a district our size to obtain special education personnel. Special education personnel is very difficult for our school district to obtain. | Respondent: Randy Isely, Curriculum Administrator, Human Resources, Danville School District | Date: 8/13/15 | Comment (Special Education Licensure Options): The Danville School District needs to be able to hire the best person we can for our special education (SPED) population and not make it as hard to become licensed as it is now.

Over the past 10 years, I cannot recall one that we did not have to hire for one, two, or even three SPED positions. Each new hire had to be placed on an ALP for three years while completing a course of study. All the teachers we hired provided an excellent education opportunity for our students from year one.

The new purposed rules would only mandate, at most, a one year ALP and maybe not that. The traditional trained educator understands teaching strategies of varying levels. The paperwork is the learning curve, and that isn't really addressed in the SPED course of study.

Please consider helping our SPED students get the best educator possible by implementing the proposed regulations. Remember sometimes the best new hire cannot find the funds to complete an additional course of study. | need areas.

More importantly, we will be allowing teachers with a skill set and heart for serving the welfare and education needs of some of our most vulnerable students. In my 19 years of experience as an educator and instructional leader, I have rarely known a "new" teacher who is properly prepared to serve the needs of the students needed special services. I have, however, seen many remarkable, experienced teachers helping to reach kids in fantastic ways- but limited to the context of the inclusion classroom or content class.

Many of these same teachers would be willing and able to make outstanding Special Education teachers, but can't or won't pay tuition and fees associated with the current required additional certification that is guaranteed to be more challenging work for no additional pay.

The streamlined, common sense, process proposed in the new rules is a rare win-win... good for kids, good for teachers, good for schools. Please adopt the proposed rules.

I personally feel it is devaluing the education of current teachers of Special Education to allow individuals to become certified thru AR IDEAS and completing other PD. All teachers of Special Education currently have a Master's level degree and I believe it should remain a requirement.

I think a certified teacher that wants to teach students with special needs should be able to teach in a Special Education do feel that with safeguards in place such as some IDEAS coursework, passing the Praxis, and maybe even having a certified mentor, it would help us find and retain Special Education teachers. There is a huge shortage all around the state, as I'm sure you know, and it's virtually impossible to get them certified before they try to find another job. I feel if we made it easier, yet still give them the information they need to get certified, it would help them and help the districts. Part of the problem is that teachers don't want to have to go back to school for another couple years when they won't even get much more money for taking a SpEd position. I feel that the current rules are hindering our ability to find quality teachers who are willing to teach Special Education. I ask that you please adopt the new rules that provide teachers the option of doing other sorts of training besides going back to school. School is good, but, as an educator, I know the value of getting down and dirty in relation to learning. I feel as though teachers will learn paperwork and other aspects of SpEd by diving into the role and learning from other teachers and/or supervisors who are in the role more so than they will from taking classes that may or may not truly relate to their everyday job. It is vitally important that as a school district, we are able to hire the best possible person for our students. Please make these proposed changes to help us help our students!

and learning, regardless of what area they are certified in. It's not always about what type of license they have, it's about how well they work with children.

I believe with good mentoring and support, teachers can be trained to work with students with disabilities. It is a very stressful job and given that most new hires must have additional coursework, which is costly and time-consuming, creates burnout easily. Retention is always a factor. because they will do the best job with our students. However, they are required to either take 21 hours and a Praxis or obtain a master’s degree and pass the praxis. This is at a tremendous cost to either the district or the teacher. It also is the majority of our ALP’s that are filed with the state department. This year alone, our district will have 9 ALP’s in the area of special education. A change in licensure requirements would allow the district to train more teachers in special education and give us a larger pool to choose from when making special education assignments for the school year. It could also keep the district from having to hire additional personnel if we have that larger pool within our district.

The higher education institutions have been in opposition of the change for fear of losing money. However, it is my belief that if the requirement could be lowered to 12 hours and a Praxis, the institutions would actually get more teachers into the program than ever. In speaking to special education administrators in the state, they are convinced that quality special education teachers would be served with a shorter, more intense training program as well.

Please consider changing our current licensure for special education to help us stay within HQT and licensure requirements and allow us to hire the best teachers for the job rather than the best credentialed teacher.

Often, the most vulnerable and most isolated, are the ones who are placed in special education classrooms. To my mind, the teachers working with these children need to be more highly trained than those teaching the talented and gifted. There has been so much improvement in the quality of higher education for special education teachers over the past 10-15 years that I would hate to see Arkansas going backwards and hiring teachers who have not had the benefit of that education. There is a critical shortage of certified special education teachers. This is doubly so in economically depressed and rural areas. It is very important that we have teachers certified to teach special education. Any relief afforded by making it simpler for special education teachers to get licensed is welcomed and greatly appreciated. We currently have three (3) special education teachers on ALP’s in McGehee. The current method employed for certification is gruesome and overly burdensome, without really producing teachers. Children who have disabilities will bear the consequences of having teachers who are not truly and professionally prepared for the complex field of Special Education for grades K-12. The problem is that there is a real shortage of teachers going into SPED, and then staying in that area for a number of years. To fix the problem, don’t throw the ‘baby out with the bathwater’ but address the burden of paperwork and documentation demands that SPED teachers have above and beyond their general ed peers. Consult SPED teachers, including those who left SPED positions, to determine what measures would improve their teaching efforts and responsibilities. Maybe it’s hiring trained assistants to handle the documentation, using other forms of technology that would speed documentation efforts?

ADE Response:
The ADE realizes the proposed changes in special education resource is not the only fix needed to address the teacher shortage in the area of special education. The ADE will continue to work on this very important issue. Currently there are many special education classrooms with long-term substitutes or staffed with individuals on an Additional Licensure Plan with no special education experience or coursework prior to entering the classroom. Well, here we go again watering down the training required for those who work with kids with special needs. The system always is willing to reduce, work around, or completely do away with requirements that benefit special kids. If the issue was football, would the schools try to reduce the services those football students receive? Of course not, in fact in some cases, schools cut back on other costs to be sure there are adequate coaches (plural) and that we bend the expenditure rules as much as possible to insure the programs. Consistently school personnel complain about the cost of Braille Embossers, Apex, CCTV's, Zoom Text, Jaws, etc. and instead, classifying kids as 504 to reduce the cost of educating visually impaired children. I don't see the Education Department entertaining the idea that training requirements for math, English, or other academic classes be reduced but it does entertain the idea of reducing the education requirements for teachers of special education. Are they less important? Are they second class students? NO, they deserve expertise by teachers specifically trained to deal with their unique needs. Yes, meeting the educational needs of special education students is expensive! Yes, the teachers of special education students do require specialized education and training to properly identify and provide appropriate education for all children with special needs.</th>

I will ask you this question and I think it will make my case. If your child was a student with special needs, would you want him/her to be taught by a teacher who was inadequately educated in the educational, social and functional needs of your child? I'm certain your answer is NO, YOU WOULD NOT; no more than a parent who has a child with great educational potential as a math student would want a teacher with inadequate general education and training.

This whole issue is not about the question "can regular teachers without adequate special education training and skills meet the CLASSROOM needs of a student in special education"; instead, it is about reducing the educational services for special needs students and making easier for schools to "appear" to be educating children with special needs. I wonder if the money saved will exceed the expenditures paid out by school districts from lawsuits by disgruntled parents?

| Respondent: Dianna DeClerk Varady | Date: 8/13/15 | Comment (Special Education Licensure Options): My name is Dianna Varady and I have an 11 year-old son who receives special education services in the Little Rock School District. As a parent of a student receiving these services I have grave concerns regarding the Arkansas Department of Education proposed change to special education teacher endorsement, which would allow any licensed general education teacher to test-out of the current special education degree requirement by passing the special education content area assessment and completing as little as 6 credit hours of coursework.

I understand that there is a shortage of appropriately credentialed special education teachers around the state, and that there are a number of very dedicated, even gifted, general education teachers who would gladly fill that void. In fact, I know many such general education teachers myself, and nobody would be happier than I would be to see them become special education teachers. However, I feel strongly that expecting any general education teacher, no matter how gifted or passionate he or she may be, to take on the responsibilities of a special education teacher without having had the benefit of extensive and comprehensive coursework in special education would be unfair to both the teacher and his or her students. Anecdotally, I have heard from educators in Arkansas that the shortage is in large part due to teacher “burn-out”, and that although we have enough licensed special education teachers in the state to meet the current demand, those teachers have chosen to move to different disciplines to escape the extraordinary amount of paperwork and the enormous workload of special education teachers. If this is indeed the case, then I fear that the proposed change will only compound the problem of the|

| ADE Response: See the response to Brandi Caldwell. |
As for the position of ADE that this test-out exception would only apply to Resource classroom teachers, I would simply say that such a position fails to see the monumentally important role resource teachers play in the education of students with disabilities. Resource teachers have students with complex, intensive special education needs, and many of these students have significant disabilities affecting not only academic performance but also social, emotional, and adaptive skills. Resource teachers are far more than literacy and math tutors, and in sparsely-populated, rural school districts they are often responsible for ALL of the students in a school receiving special education services.

I hope that the Arkansas Department of Education will reconsider this proposed change, and will instead work with the new Legislative Task Force on the Best Practices for Special Education to determine the cause(s) of the current special education teacher shortage and develop a plan to address the shortage based on the data compiled by the Task Force.

my intention to only teach the high school level and in the content area of English; therefore, I do not necessarily need a K-12 licensure for this position. As an Art Teacher, I taught many students with mild to severe disabilities in an inclusive classroom environment. For this reason, along with the unfortunate onset of paranoid schizophrenia in my teenage son three years ago, I felt strongly about making the switch to special education in order to learn more about students and the various methods of how they learn, as well as seeking innovative strategies for increasing reading and writing skills for students with Specific Learning Disabilities. It is an inspiring endeavor; however, I feel overwhelmed and distracted by trying to manage and pay for college classes alongside teaching, juggling family, and becoming familiar with the paperwork procedures that are a mandatory and equally important part of a special education student's success in his/her least restrictive environment.

In addition, I am currently studying to take the Praxis in order to add English to my licensure, which would benefit my content teaching as well as student achievement. Thus far, the class that I have taken towards the program of study for Special Education K-12 does not relate in any form to anything that I do in the classroom. The courses of study might be beneficial to someone who has never taught; however, it is redundant and expensive for someone who has been teaching for several years. | Respondent: Kristi Cox, MSE, LEA Special Education Supervisor, Special Programs, Batesville School District | Date: 8/13/15 | Comment (Special Education Licensure Options): Thank you for the opportunity to express public opinion regarding the proposed changes to the Rules Governing Educator Licensure. I am writing specifically about the proposed changes to grades K-6 and 7-12 Special Education Resource.

It is my opinion that the proposed changes are a step in the right direction. As a former K-3 Resource teacher, K-6 Self-Contained teacher and now an LEA, I understand the importance of finding qualified special education teachers. I am also of the frame of mind that "qualified" doesn't necessarily mean a PRAXIS, Program of Study, Master's, or EdS degree. General education teachers in grades K-12 teach students with special needs on a daily basis. These are often phenomenal teachers that could step into a "resource classroom" and begin teaching tomorrow. A good teacher can teach anything.

The fact that special education is a shortage area in the State of Arkansas is something with which I am acutely aware. As a new LEA, I found myself hiring a special education teacher 2 1/2 weeks before school started. Hiring any teacher 2 1/2 weeks before school starts is a daunting task. Add special education to the mix, and the task becomes next to impossible. The district was able to hire a very qualified young lady, with 4 years experience in a CHMS Clinic. However, this highly qualified educator is not currently certified in special education. Therefore, this young lady has taken a pay cut and is now going to enroll in an institution of higher learning to complete a program of study or MSE in Special Education. | ADE Response: See the response to John Gray. |
In addition, my district has employed two other qualified educators in the role of special educator. One was a special education paraprofessional for 10+ years and is currently licensed P-4. The other has a Master’s Degree and has endorsements in middle school math, social studies, literacy and science as well as special education paraprofessional experience. Both ladies are currently enrolled in programs of study for K-12 special education. This, yet again, is an example of teachers who are very highly qualified, based on experience, but do not possess the “correct” degree.

Having been a qualified teacher without a special education degree, I understand the path taken by many educators. I had 8 years of special education experience in the private sector but was not certified. When hired, I pursued the MSE in Special Education as it was an important personal goal. The information gleaned in special education law was valuable to me as a special educator as well as in taking/passing the required PRAXIS courses.

My concern regarding these proposed changes is that they are still somewhat restrictive. The SPED 101 Academy and required 3 credit hours of course work mean enrollment at an institution of higher learning and subsequent cost for the participant. The need for PRAXIS assessment might still be viewed by some as an insurmountable task, thus causing educators to shy away.

First, I want to express support for the revised rules. I would have preferred the original proposal but am appreciative of the efforts of ADE staff, representatives of higher education and public school personnel who arrived at the compromise.

The only questions I have about the rules are technical in nature:

In 2-3.05.4 the coursework must be from an accredited college or university but in 2-3.07.2.2 the language does not mention an accredited college or university. Should the language be consistent?

In 2-3.05.4 the 45 hours professional development option is valuable because it allows a teacher the flexibility to complete the needed training with some control over their daily and weekly schedule. Why was that option not provided to applicants in 7-12? I would recommend that

He is the most caring person I've ever met, his love and joy are infectious. He also has Asperger's syndrome, ADHD, high levels of anxiety and sensory processing disorder. Our struggle with public schools started in kindergarten. And we have continued to encounter bullying, verbal and physical, and mostly a lack of education from the staff. There are so many wonderful, amazing educators out there, but without the PROPER education, they will never understand our children. We have struggled to the point where I have had to remove my son because we were losing him, he was slipping further and further into his own world. And meeting after meeting discussing these issues brought no solutions. The staff were trying, they were great, they were very caring, they were NOT educated in special education. So as a parent, I beg you the Arkansas Department of Education to please not allow our special education teachers to only be required to have 6 credit hours before they care for my child. | ADE Response: See the response to Brandi Caldwell. |

in which to receive special education certification. Oftentimes a teacher will not realize, until later in their career, that they have a genuine interest in special education. In my 22 years in education (12 in administration) I know of instances where talented teachers have voiced a desire to transition to special education. I have also employed teachers that undoubtedly would serve the special education population well but would not consider the former path to certification. Giving the aforementioned the opportunity to pursue special education through a more attractive pathway will increase the opportunity for school districts to recruit talented teachers into the field of education. Again, I would like to voice my support for the proposed special education rules for licensure.

| Respondent: Glenda Bryan, Principal, Avondale Elementary School | Date: 8/14/15 | Comment (Special Education Licensure Options): For several years our district has found it very difficult to hire personnel for special education positions that are available. We have had several instances where we had to move someone who is already on our staff in another capacity (without special education certification) and that person had to be willing to go back to school and get the required degree in order to be certified and licensed in that area. It is becoming more and more difficult to find high quality applicants for these positions. Many times, as administrators, we see the qualities in our employees that would fit well with meeting the needs of our special education population, but these employees (for whatever reason) are not able to go back to school to secure the hours needed for degrees and certification. The new regulations would allow for this. I hope that you will consider my comments (from the "trenches") when making a decision | ADE Response: See the response to John Gray. |

I am an Elementary Principal in NW Arkansas. Currently I have a Highly Qualified Teacher who has her masters in reading as well as hours of Professional Development geared toward teaching students who may learn differently than the majority of their peers. She has paid for her masters as well as most of the PD she has attended out of her own pocket, because helping struggling students is her passion. She has been a second grade teacher until this current school year. I had an opening in our Special Education, and because of her passion and knowledge we filed an ALP and moved her into this position. She is a single mother and to pay for more college hours to meet current requirements would be a burden on her and in my opinion will not make her any more qualified. | ADE Response:

<td>Having been a regular educator and moved to teaching special education I can clearly state that without the required special education training I received I would not have been successful in this transition. In talking with a wide variety of educators and educational administrators the issue with special education teachers is not a numbers issue, but rather a retention issue. Special education teachers experience an increased burnout factor due to overwhelming paperwork requirements and the wide range of needs of their students. When you add the wide variety of learning styles and cognitive levels you understand the reason for this. I can share with you that my own step-daughter is dually certified and currently teaches 3rd grade instead of special education. Her reasoning was simple – “I get to teach in 3rd grade, special education is all about paperwork”. I am confident this scenario plays out all over Arkansas.</td>

I have had excellent general education teachers wanting to teach in special education, but they have not been able to afford to go back to school to get an additional degree. Special education teachers get paid the same as a regular education teacher even though they have a tremendous amount of paperwork and have federal and state | ADE Response: See the response to John Gray. |
I have personally mentored general education teachers working on their special education degree from ASU, WGU, and SAU. They were all excellent teachers, but they didn't learn about special education rules, laws and paperwork from the college. It was from hands on experience and professional development. These people were already excellent teachers, they wanted the challenge and rewards of working with students with special needs. As a state we are missing an opportunity to allow already licensed teachers the option of adding on special education to their license without expending more of their money and time. The teachers will still take the Praxis, complete PD, and attend SPED 101 Academy. I have not seen the other route be beneficial to our students or our teachers.

Our students with special needs are entitled to get the best teachers we can find. We are being held accountable, as part of our monitoring process, for student outcomes. Because of this we need now, more than ever, the option to put the best educators with our students that have great needs. I strongly encourage legislatures to change this process to benefit our students.

Arkansas Education Association | The revised rules are an improvement from the proposed rules that were in front of the Legislative Council in June of 2015, however, we still have significant concerns with the proposed rule changes. Consider the title of the position: Special Education Teacher. A Special Education teacher must have specialized training. Special training does not mean less training, it means more, special training. Special Education teachers teach special students with a wide range of disabilities who come to them at a variety of developmental levels and with a wide variety of needs. Working with a special population with special needs requires expert knowledge in much more than one subject area or one grade level.

Simply allowing regular classroom teachers to become special education teachers by testing out, completing a SPED 101 Academy, completing a single special education course or attending some additional professional development will not equip that regular classroom teacher to take on the multitude of special needs of our students who need the most attention and the most expertise. The proposed routes to qualification to teach special education fall disturbingly short of the preparation that Special Education students and teachers need to be successful.

To illustrate why any erosion of the standards for Special Education Resource teachers would negatively impact students and teachers, I want to share some of the responsibilities, requirements and demands that Special Education teachers face. Special Education teachers prepare for, care for and teach children with a variety of disabilities. These specialized teachers must understand how each type of disability impacts learning. Special Education teachers must have a deep understanding of a wide range of developmental processes that extend far beyond one level of licensure. In addition, they must have experience in a wide range of expert teaching strategies, based in research, for all core subjects and at multiple developmental levels.

These special educators must know and understand the law and due process for behavioral issues. They are required to know how to write individual goals and objectives for each curriculum subject area based on grade level Common Core Standards for each student based on his or her individual needs and circumstances. Special education teachers have to maintain ongoing data collection and report progress each quarter as well as annually. They must not only focus on interventions for individual student achievement while considering the appropriate level of instruction, but they must also assess how the student's disability impacts learning and document each student's achievement, while revising plans and interventions throughout the school year. As the Special Education experts, resource teachers have to coordinate with the students' other teachers, therapists, and parents to write Individual Education Plans that ensure academic and social achievement for students. This comprehensive work is done on an annual basis.

Special Education teachers are held to a very high standard of knowledge of the complex laws and requirements to manage serving students. They must meet the required number of instructional minutes with the students, collect data, maintain all paperwork, and plan daily lessons for each individual student based on their IEP. The matrix of needs these students require to be successful demands that we ask our most qualified, experienced, and highly trained teachers to take on these tasks.

We have concerns that putting regular classroom teachers into a special education setting where students have some of the greatest needs is not a viable long term solution for teacher shortage areas or for successful student outcomes. Shortage areas have been addressed with the option for licensed teachers to be hired and to work in Special Education while they are completing a program of study through an ALP.

Our fear is that these proposed rule changes would allow teachers to be licensed, but under-prepared. Public school educators teach all of our students and it is incumbent upon all of us to ensure that the certification process for educators will prepare them to be successful for all of our students. It is imperative that we not erode these standards which can lead to frustration and failure. Our students with disabilities and special needs deserve and have a right to an appropriate education from a teacher with specialized training and skills.

| Respondent: Susan Shurley, Director Special Services, Marion School District | Date: 8/14/15 | Comment (Special Education Licensure Options): Submission of this comment is to SUPPORT the proposed rules regarding the licensure of special education teachers. The current licensure process is extremely difficult. It is vital a licensure process be in place to allow districts the opportunity to hire the best person they can for our special education population. It is important the process not be so difficult candidates find it near impossible to become licensed as is the current licensure process. | ADE Response: See the response to John Gray. |

I have been an LEA Supervisor in SW Arkansas for the past fourteen years. Prior to this, I was a Special Education teacher for ten years. As a supervisor, I can verify that we have a shortage of certified teachers in Special Education in Southwest Arkansas.

There are several reasons for this.

1). Financially, the teachers often do not have the personal funds to go back to school.

2). Excessive litigation scares teachers from coming to this area.

3). Extra education for the same pay when they are certified in another area is not economically reasonable.

There are several Special Educators against the proposed regulations due to the hard work they have done for their licensure. They feel it is a slap in the face. I respect and understand their thinking and concerns. On the other hand, I have lost good teachers who tested out in other states and received licensure there, only to be denied in Arkansas. Because of this, I support the proposals as they currently are for SpEd licensure with the inclusion of the supplemental requirements. We need more Special Education teachers in order to serve students with Special Education needs.

As you might imagine, the quality of applicants at that time of year was extremely low. Rather than deal with hiring a weak teacher who could ultimately cause us more problems than he/she might fix, the position went unfilled last year. We dealt with it by reconfiguring the job descriptions and FTE of one of our principals, who is licensed in special education. We are a small district which only employs 4 special education teachers and we had difficulty finding quality special education licensed applicants. It is disturbing to note that Three Public School systems in Arkansas have decided to declare themselves Charter Schools which also indicates they do not have to have certified teachers in every classroom. Respondent:

Comment (Special Education Licensure Options):
Disability Rights Arkansas (DRA) has reviewed the Arkansas Department of Education's (Department) proposed changes to the Special Education Licensure Rules, and we are concerned that these changes would be detrimental to the quality of education that students with disabilities would receive in the state. While we appreciate the Department revising its previously proposed rules to include some training or coursework related to special education before allowing the addition of Special Education certification, we believe that this training is not enough to adequately prepare a teacher for the complicated issues they will encounter in the Special Education field.

We understand that the Department has proposed these rule changes in response to a reported shortage of special education teachers throughout the state. While lowering the training and coursework requirements might result in additional teachers to fill special education positions, it does not provide those teachers with the training and resources needed for the specialized field and does not truly address the shortage issue.

ADE Response:
See the responses to Brandi Caldwell and Karan Baker Burnette.
Special education teachers must be able to utilize extensive skills and instruction they have received in order to address the unique challenges that a student with a disability might face within their classrooms. Without receiving training in evidence-based practices and teaching methods, teachers will not have the resources to draw from in order to effectively address their students' needs, which could lead to safety concerns within the classroom and to further teacher shortages. In short, lowering the qualifications needed in order to obtain special education certification does a disservice to both the teachers and to the students within their classrooms.

We encourage the Department to postpone any changes to the special education licensure rules until a meeting can be held with important stakeholders, including those who educate and prepare our future teachers and those currently teaching in special education, so that the rules can better reflect the training and supports that special education teachers need. Additional time and conversation would allow the Department to better determine the causes of any special education teacher shortage and to address that problem head-on. In the meantime, should a district be unable to fill a position with a special education teacher that meets the needed requirements, the Department could look at an alternative licensure program on a limited, case-by-case basis, without needing to lower the standards for all special education teachers across the state just to fill a vacancy. We believe that, through this discussion, the Department will find that special education teachers need more resources, not less, and the rules governing special education certification should account for that.
Our students with disabilities rely on having teachers in the classroom who have received extensive training and preparation to meet their varying educational needs. We believe that the licensure requirements must reflect that to ensure that our students with disabilities receive the type of education that they are entitled to by law and, most importantly, the type of education that they deserve.

[Note: Disability Rights Arkansas also provided the same comment at the public hearing on these rules.]

| Respondent: Sharon Berry, Principal Arkansas School for the Blind and Visually Impaired | Date: 8/14/15 | Comment (Special Education Licensure Options): I am a general and special education teacher/Principal. I am extremely worried that you are weakening special education by watering down the requirements for licensure in special education. For a teacher, special education is a “specialist” position that requires expertise in dealing with, accommodating for, educating and managing children with diverse special needs. General education teachers cannot and should not be allowed to obtain special education licensure without appropriate higher education courses, internships and Praxis assessments. Not everyone who teaches general education is capable of effectively and appropriately teaching children with special needs. Please do not water down and weaken the educational opportunities for children with disabilities. |

| ADE Response: The ADE realizes the proposed changes in special education resource are not the only fix needed to address the teacher shortage in the area of special education. The ADE will continue to work on this very important issue. Currently there are several teachers each school year allowed to work under an Additional Licensure Plan (ALP) for special education. The proposed changes to special education resource is designed to help give teachers interested in teaching in the field a route to become licensed without losing the integrity of the special education requirements. |

Well, here we go again watering down the training required for those who work with kids with special needs. The system always is willing to reduce, work around, of completely do away with requirements that benefit special kids. If the issue was football, would the schools try to reduce the services those football students receive? I don't see the Education Department entertaining the idea that training requirements for math, English, or other academic classes be reduced but it does entertain the idea of reducing the education requirements for teachers of special education. I am concerned about the proposed changes that will allow teachers to obtain their education needs of your child? I'm certain your answer is NO, YOU WOULD NOT; no more than a parent who has a child with great educational potential as a math student would want a teacher with inadequate general education and training.

This whole issue is not about the question "can regular teachers without adequate special education training and skills meet the CLASSROOM needs of a student in special education"; instead, it is about reducing the educational services for special needs students and making easier for schools to "appear" to be educating children with special needs. I wonder if the money saved will exceed the expenditures paid out by school districts from lawsuits by disgruntled parents? | license to teach special education resource without rigorous academic training program. It seems that the proposed changes will streamline the path to licensure without providing the knowledge and skills necessary to provide proper classroom instruction. We should provide better pre-service preparation, rather than providing less.

I understand these proposed changes are in response to the difficulty that school districts encounter in employing highly qualified teachers. Data from the National Education Association (NEA) indicate we may be facing a problem with retention, more than one of recruitment. Special education teachers report that they leave the field due to a variety of reasons, including lack of administrative support and mentoring, limited professional development and training, lack of planning time, working conditions, excessive paperwork, and working with children with challenging disabilities without proper support. It would seem that sending teachers into the classroom with less training will only exacerbate these factors. Rather than reducing preparation of teachers, better preparation and support while in the classroom will pay high dividends with retention. Reduction in preparation will likely only speed the revolving door leading to teachers’ exit from the profession, or at least from special education.

I work with children with autism and fetal alcohol spectrum disorders that have many challenging behaviors. When these children are in the care of marginally qualified personnel, we tend to see an escalation of problems. We owe them every opportunity to succeed and need skilled personnel as their teachers.
I encourage you to suspend the proposed revision of special education licensure and to focus on supports that can encourage retention.

ADE Response:
Much of the discussion and questions raised here by UCA are issues that will likely be the subject of discussion for the Special Education Task Force that met for the first time on August 17, 2015. Our responses here are to particular statements regarding these rules.
A.1. – The reference is to a change in November 2013 licensure rules that were the result of recommendations from the 2011-2012 Licensure Task Force.
A.2 – In response to the statement, “there is a not a K-6 special education teacher shortage,” the ADE issued 440 Additional Licensure Plan (ALP) Waivers for Special Education in 2014-2015. Of those, 163 were ALP Waivers for P-4 grades (the current elementary level of license during that year). Under an ALP, an educator may teach the content area while they are seeking licensure. Also, we have eight (8) institutions of higher education offering programs for special education licensure, and only six (6) of those are offering a program for
1. AR has essentially gone from an exemplary SPE license (3 yrs ago) to proposing a license which is typical of those seen in the 1970’s. States have moved away from the categorical/level of severity license (Mild, Moderate, Severe, etc) to a non-categorical (such as the K-12) current license. Of course, while resource room services are typically associated with students with mild disabilities, “resource” is not a disability category but a placement option. How many years have we touted, special education is not a placement, but a service? Do we really want to have a license area based on placement option as if we are still working under a categorical focus? Currently (or in very near future) there will be a new state task force charged with evaluating special education practices in Arkansas to determine if our practices are promoting inclusive services and quality education to the special population. It seems as if this categorical approach would not go over well.

2. If this is passed, we have concerns with section 2-3.05.1.2. A person holding a standard 4-8 license may test out of either (but not both) K-6 Special Education Resource or 7-12 Special Education Resource. Since the Special Education Resource will be a new license, all levels should be kept equivalent, meaning if we are creating new licenses, then create a new 4-8 Special Education License, otherwise special education resource teachers will be teaching a first-time K-12 special education license.

As to the statement, “These 9 hours should not be able to include a previous special education survey course.” The special education survey is a course in the special education program, so it is not clear why they would not count their own course.

B. “Questions that need answers” – This section seems to ask the ADE to address issues or to speculate about issues that are not necessarily rule-related. Therefore, the comments will be taken under consideration and if the ADE determines there is a need to address them, it will do so in a more appropriate forum.

B.3 – The Diament report is based on data from 2012-2013. The data was all based on a system that was creating educators based on the “exemplary SPE license” of previous years. Arkansas’s Education Preparation Programs transition to the new licensure areas had not been in effect. The effects of the major shift in Special Education licensure in Arkansas will not be evident for several years.

B.4 – Under the previous licensure system, Special Education licensure was an endorsement only. This meant that teachers

|   | in a grade level for which they are not prepared.
  o Middle school typically covers grades 5, 6, 7 and sometimes grade 8. If a 4-8 teacher must choose K-6 or 7-12, he/she will not be able to teach all children in his/her school. For example, if a teacher chooses k-6 Special Education Resource, he/she will not be able to teach students in grades 7 or 8. If this same teacher chose 7-12 Special Education Resource, he/she will not be able to teach the students in grades 5 and 6. Either way results in a 4-8 regular education teacher who either receives a 7-12 Special Education Resource license or a K-6 Special Education Resource license potentially teaching in an area he/she is not trained for. Therefore it makes sense to also develop a middle school Special Education Resource license, otherwise a shortage of highly qualified teachers will continue.
  o Furthermore, we are not convinced that this new license helps schools because now schools need multiple types of special education teachers – teachers that can cover resource AND teachers that can cover all other areas of special education such as teachers for students with more significant disabilities. With the current license (not the new proposed license) special education teachers can teach all levels of k-12 students with special needs.
|   |   | would have an initial license and possibly multiple teaching areas. Those teachers would have a “choice” and may be choosing to teach in their initial area.
|   |   | B.5 – ADE has website available that provides a list of trainings and other support that is available.
|   |   | https://arksped.k12.ar.us/index.html
|   |   | C.2 – The following statement is incorrect, “… in 2013 The Arkansas Department of Education once again changed licensure requirements … creating a non-categorical, stand-alone license, meaning a standard license for special education – it is no longer an endorsement.” K-12 continues to be available as an endorsement to a standard license.
|   |   | C.7 – Adding K-6 and 7-12 Special Education Resource will not require IHEs to rewrite any current programs. IHEs must submit a proposal for a new endorsement, but to offer the endorsement is optional.

In addition, there is a not a K-6 special education teacher shortage. Therefore there is no need for a K-6 Special Education Resource license.

In addition, Section 2-3.05.4 states that a teacher would need to “Document successful completion of three (3) college credit hours in special education at an accredited college or university or a 45-hour professional development piece in special education through ArkansasIDEAS. “ We strongly believe that this 3-hour college credit course needs to have a time frame limit on it. The field and knowledge of best practices in special education are constantly changing, so teachers should not be allowed to use a class that is older than 5 years. In addition, once IDEA is reauthorized, this 5 year limit needs to be re-examined. In addition, we want clarification that this 3 hour course must be in addition to SPED 101 Academy.

Endorsement by program of study states that

2-3.07 To add a K-6 or 7-12 Special Education Resource endorsement by program of study, an applicant shall:

2-3.07.1 Hold a standard 4-6 or 4-8 license, or a standard 7-12 license in a content area of English Language Arts, Mathematics, or Science;
This is a typo and should state K-6 or 4-8…

2-3.07.2 Document successful completion of nine (9) to twelve (12) hours of study in special education, to include:

2-3.07.2.1 SPED 101 Academy;
2-3.07.2.2 An additional nine (9)
If SPED 101 Academy by definition is 3 college-credit hours, universities will need to write new programs of studies for the additional 9 hours. These 9 hours should not be able to include a previous special education survey course. And if the new program does, once again the course should be no older than 5 years, and once IDEA is re-authorized, the 5 year limit needs to be replaced.

B. Questions that need answers

1. Since IDEA 2004, students with disabilities have been held to the same assessment standards as other students. One question that begs answering is, how do identified students with disabilities in Arkansas fare on high stakes assessments? How do Arkansas students compare to students from other surrounding states? Has the ADE examined this data?

2. Given OSEP is transitioning from requiring states to report “compliance data” to “result data” in State Performance Plans (SPP), ADE should be very thoughtful when considering the preparation of
3. Another question to be answered: How does Arkansas compare to surrounding states in the provision of special education services to its students? In 2013, most states were identified by the U.S. Department of Education as meeting their responsibilities to provide special education services (http://www.disabilityscoop.com/2013/07/16/states-improvement-sped/18321/). Arkansas was among those given this designation. Interestingly, Oklahoma and Texas, states bordering Arkansas, were identified as needing assistance. In a 2014 article (http://www.disabilityscoop.com/2014/06/24/most-deficient-special-ed/19466/), Michelle Diament suggested that new federal criteria are being used to determine quality of special education services, and that Arkansas is now listed as a state that needs assistance, along with Louisiana, Mississippi, Oklahoma, and Tennessee. Texas was listed as a state that needed intervention, and Missouri was the only state bordering Arkansas that met requirements. To what degree has the Arkansas Department of Education examined student outcome data in making the determination that candidates can “test out” in order to receive a special education license? In other words, what data, other than superintendent complaints, have been studied?

4. The major reason why the new rules are being considered are that proponents hope to solve the shortage of highly qualified special education teachers. However, in Arkansas there are high numbers of teachers already licensed in special education but who choose not to teach in the field. The issue of retention of special education teachers is typically related to lack of administrative support and mentoring, limited professional development and training, lack of planning time, working conditions, excessive paperwork, and working with children with challenging disabilities without proper support (www.nea.org). Having special education teachers without adequate training in the field who will likely deal with these same factors will likely result in even higher numbers of special education teachers leaving the profession at a faster rate. So what is the Arkansas Department of Education doing in the area of retention, as retention seems to be the bigger issue

5. This critical shortage of special education is not new information. For years, it seems as if the main form of attack on the shortage has been to change licensure requirements. Perhaps the much larger issue is, what is the ADE doing to provide the degree of support that teachers in the field of special education truly need? With such a focus on regulatory compliance, what kinds of networking and professional development opportunities are being offered so that teachers will want to stay in this noble field?

6. What is the Arkansas Department of Education doing in the area of retention, as retention seems to be the bigger issue?

C. Background on Special Education Teacher Licensure since the late 1990s

1. Prior to 2000, special educators were licensed categorically by level of severity, that is to say mild, moderate or severe-profound disabilities.

2. In 2001 Arkansas changed special education licensure to an endorsement program requiring teachers to hold a regular/general education license before adding an age equivalent special education license. This was in response to NCLB and IDEA. However, before these programs were given a chance to provide highly qualified special educators, the Department of Education decided to allow regular educators to get a special education license in an age level other than their standard license in regular education, for example, a teacher with P-4 regular education license could with a program of study be licensed as a Grade 4-12 special educator, with no appropriate content area. This was done to appease superintendents indicating they had a teacher shortage.

3. In 2013 Arkansas was held up in a session being conducted by the U.S. Department of Education at the annual ATE meeting as a leader in the area of special education licensure because we required a standard teaching license with an endorsement in special education. Following the meeting, the presenters were informed of the recent change in licensure.

4. In response to a critical shortage of special educators, in 2013 The Arkansas Department of Education once again changed licensure requirements. This time, creating a non-categorical, stand-alone license, meaning a standard license for special education – it is no longer an endorsement. However, more subject content was added to the licensure requirements. It was thought that this added content would allow special educators to be considered “Highly Qualified”.

5. In order to address critical shortage of special education teachers, IHEs have responded to requests from ADE by:
   ✔ revising existing special education preparation programs to meet two new licensure levels (BK integrated and K-12

This is to promote appropriate decision-making. The candidate needs to test out of the area for which they are best suited. |

The Westside Consolidated School District strongly endorses the recommendation from the ADE concerning special education licensure. We are in a crisis in Arkansas concerning the availability of qualified special education teachers. I am fully supportive on the increased flexibility in order to provide a licensed teacher for our students who most need a licensed teacher.

I understand some special interest groups are complaining and "stacking the deck" to get their way on this issue. These groups have no clue as to the challenges all public schools face with finding licensed special education teachers in this critical shortage area. In my view, our | ADE Response: See the response to John Gray. | institutions of higher education need to be more flexible in helping alleviate this crisis in our state. Many other areas of licensure are provided this flexibility, and special education licensure should be no exception.

Westside is going through a crisis at this moment trying to fill 1-2 positions for self-contained special education classrooms. These students deserve a licensed teacher to provide much needed services for their benefit.

Please let me know if you need more information. I am fully supportive of the flexibility being proposed by this ADE regulation.

Comment (Various sections):

1-1.04 should be changed to “contains no less than six (6) days” to match the change to 6-17-2402(1) from Act 44.

Several places the rules mention the GED, which was changed to “high school equivalency” by Act 1115.

Is 4-2.03.1 necessary since the statutory amount of PD required to be included in a contract was changed to thirty-six by Act 44?

4-2.08.1.2: Tier 2 was reduced to a minimum of 2 hours of training by Act 345.

ADE Response: ADE has made changes in the final rule to reflect each of these comments.
| Respondent: Christopher E. Trombly, Ph.D., Assistant Professor, Educational Leadership, Department Head, Center for Leadership and Learning | Date: 8/11/15 | Comment (Appendix A): Having reviewed the proposed rules for educator licensure, I encourage you to revise the table in Appendix A, Levels and Areas of Licensure, to reflect the minimum degree that is required to hold each license. As presently written, the table could be interpreted to mean that the school counseling license can be obtained with no more than a Bachelor's degree. Since nothing in the written rules explicitly states otherwise, that's problematic. Clearly, anyone who is to serve in a school counseling capacity should hold an advanced degree in school counseling or counseling psychology. | ADE Response: The Policies Governing Educator Preparation Program Approval will address this. The policies will include the requirement of a Master’s level or higher programs for School Guidance Counselor, Library Media Specialist, and Reading Specialist. |

| Respondent: Dr. David Bell, Director of Licensure and Support Services; Dr. Mary Gunter, Dean of the College of Education and the Graduate College, Arkansas Tech University | Date: 8/11/15 | Comment (Appendix A): The chart is not clear related to level of degree required to hold the license. Do you need a column indicating the minimum degree required to hold the license? As an example, can you hold the counseling license with a bachelor’s degree? We think licensure in counseling should require as a minimum a master’s degree. | ADE Response: The Policies Governing Educator Preparation Program Approval will address this. The policies will include the requirement of a Master’s level or higher programs for School Guidance Counselor, Library Media Specialist, and Reading Specialist. |

| Respondent: Dee Dee Cain | Date: 8/12/15 | Comment (General): Keep standards high for teachers our children deserve the best. You guys set the scores so stand by them. | ADE Response: Praxis scores are set by national and state standard setting studies (which include state experts in the relevant field) and adopted by the State Board of Education. |

TRADITIONAL LICENSURE

1-1.0 REGULATORY AUTHORITY AND PURPOSE

1-1.01 These Rules shall be known as Arkansas Department of Education Rules Governing Educator Licensure.

1-1.02 The State Board of Education enacts these Rules pursuant to its authority as set forth in Ark. Code Ann. §§ 6-11-105, 6-15-1004, 6-15-1703, 6-17-401 et seq., 6-17-2601 et seq., 6-20-2204, 6-20-2305, 6-41-609, 6-61-133, and 25-15-201 et seq.

1-1.03 The purposes of these Rules are to:

1-1.03.1 Establish requirements and procedures for the issuance, licensure, relicensure, and continuance of licensure of educators in the public schools of this state, as required by Ark. Code Ann. § 6-17-402;

1-1.03.2 Provide for the acceptance of educator licenses by reciprocity, as required by Ark. Code Ann. § 6-17-403;

1-1.03.3 Implement as a prerequisite to licensure the requirement of basic-skills, pedagogical, and content-area assessments, as required by Ark. Code Ann. §§ 6-17-402, 6-17-601, & 6-15-1004;

1-1.03.4 Implement as a prerequisite to licensure the requirement of college-level coursework in Arkansas History for certain educators, as required by Ark. Code Ann. § 6-17-418;

1-1.03.5 Provide for the issuance of provisional licenses, as required by Ark. Code Ann. §§ 6-17-403 & 6-17-418;

1-1.03.6 Provide for the issuance of provisional and standard licenses through nontraditional programs, under Ark. Code Ann. § 6-17-409; and

1-1.03.7 Provide for a Lifetime Teaching License, under Ark. Code Ann. § 6-17-2601 et seq.

1-1.04 These Rules implement Arkansas law requiring that school districts provide ten (10) six (6) professional development days in the basic contract for teachers under Ark. Code Ann. § 6-17-2402;
1-1.04.1 It is noted here that higher education shall include within educator preparation programs curriculum that addresses requirements established by Arkansas statutes governing preparation for educator licensure, including without limitation, instruction in:

1-1.04.1.1 Child maltreatment, under Ark. Code Ann. § 6-61-133; and

1-1.04.1.2 Information on the identification of students at risk for dyslexia and related disorders, under Ark. Code Ann. § 6-41-609.

1-1.05 In addition to the pathways to licensure contained in these Rules, the Arkansas Department of Career Education Program Policies and Procedures for Career and Technical Education provide other pathways to licensure for individuals who meet that Department’s requirements and who:

1-1.05.1 Hold a bachelor’s or higher degree in the career or technical area to be taught; or

1-1.05.2 Document a minimum of four (4) years of experience in the career or technical area to be taught, and hold a high school diploma or GED high school equivalency credential.

4-4.09.5 Whether or not an ALCP is issued, no person shall be employed by a public school in an out-of-area position for more than thirty (30) days without a waiver issued pursuant to Chapter 4, Section 4-4.0 of these Rules.

Waiver (ALP/ALCP)

4-4.10 The Office of Educator Licensure may grant a public school, agency, or organization a one-year waiver of the requirements of Sections 4-4.01 through 4-4.09 if it imposes an undue hardship in that a school is unable to timely fill a vacant position with a qualified individual licensed in the required licensure content area and level of licensure.

4-4.11 A request for waiver shall be submitted by the superintendent of the public school district or director of the charter school and shall include:
4-4.11.1 A listing of all licensed employees employed by the school district or charter school, including for each licensed employee:

4-4.11.1.1 Social Security number;
4-4.11.1.2 Current licensure area(s);
4-4.11.1.3 Whether the employee is currently employed in an out-of-area position, and if so, whether the position requires a highly-qualified teacher;
4-4.11.1.4 Any prior completed Additional Licensure Plan(s) (ALP); and
4-4.11.1.5 All prior school years in which the employee was employed in an out-of-area position;

4-4.11.2 A justification for the waiver documenting the efforts of the district or charter school to find a fully licensed, highly qualified employee. Districts will not have to verify re-advertising for the second and third years for a position, as long as the individual holds a valid ALP or ALCP;

4-4.11.3 A written plan with timelines for completion of the ALP or ALCP requirements; and

4-4.11.4 If a waiver was granted for the same position in the prior school year, evidence that the ALP or ALCP plan timelines are being met in accordance with Sections 4-4.02, 4-4.03, or 4-4.08.

4-4.12 A school, district, agency, or organization shall annually apply for renewal of the waiver each additional year the employee is working under an approved ALP or ALCP. The one (1)-year waiver may be renewed two (2) times, for a maximum of three (3) years of waiver for the same position, so long as the ALP or ACLP issued to the employee remains valid and the employee meets the ALP or ALCP plan timelines.

4-4.13 The district superintendent or charter school director shall send written notice of the assignment of an employee to an out-of-area position to the parent or guardian of each student in the employee’s classroom no later than thirty (30) instructional days after the date of the assignment.

4-4.13.1 Parental notice is not required for the out-of-area assignment of a counselor, library media specialist, or administrator.
4-4.14 The final decision regarding the granting of a waiver rests with the State Board.

Substitute Teachers

4-4.15 Since it is sometimes necessary to utilize the services of substitute personnel, public schools should select competent individuals who can be entrusted with the instructional responsibilities of the school. As much care should be given to the recruitment, selection, and utilization of those who will be used as substitutes as is given to licensed personnel.

4-4.15.1 A person employed as a temporary substitute for a licensed teacher in a public school shall:

4-4.15.1.1 Be a high school graduate; or

4-4.15.1.2 Hold a GED® high school equivalency test certificate.

4-4.15.2 No class of students in any public school shall be under the instruction of a substitute teacher for more than thirty (30) consecutive instructional days in the same class during a school year unless the substitute teacher instructing the class has:

4-4.15.2.1 A bachelor's or higher degree awarded by an accredited college or university; or

4-4.15.2.2 A current Standard Teaching License, Ancillary License, Provisional License, Administrator’s License, or Lifetime Teaching License issued by the State of Arkansas.

4-4.15.3 A public school shall request a waiver for each semester, not to exceed two (2) consecutive semesters to employ a substitute teacher whenever a class of students will be receiving instructions from the substitute teacher for longer than thirty (30) consecutive instructional days unless the substitute is fully licensed in Arkansas for areas in which the substitute is employed.

4-4.15.4 A public school may not avoid a waiver request by:

4-4.15.4.1 Relying on the license of another teacher or administrator in the building who is not the assigned substitute teacher and is not actively teaching the class;

4-4.15.4.2 Terminating the services of a substitute teacher(s) prior to the thirty-first (31st) instructional day;
4-4.15.4.3  Granting the substitute teacher one (1) or more days of personal or administrative leave; or

4-4.15.4.4  Using any other method of circumventing the intent of the law or these rules.

4-4.15.5  The district superintendent or charter school director shall send written notice of the assignment of a substitute teacher to an out-of-area position to the parent or guardian of each student in the teacher’s classroom no later than thirty (30) consecutive instructional days after the date of the assignment.

4-4.15.6  This Section 4-4.15 shall not apply to non-degreed vocational-technical teachers.

4-4.15.7  The superintendent of a public school district or director of a charter school may apply for a waiver from the State Board if the requirements set forth in this Section 4-4.15 impose an undue hardship on the school or district.

4-4.15.7.1  A written application for waiver shall be submitted to the Department as soon as an undue hardship is determined by the superintendent or charter school director. The application letter shall include:

4-4.15.7.1.1  A justification of need for the waiver;

4-4.15.7.1.2  Documentation that a degreed or properly-licensed individual is not available to be employed;

4-4.15.7.1.3  Instructional area that will be assigned to the substitute teacher, and

4-4.02.8.1.4  The length of time the substitute will be employed.

4-4.15.7.2  Waivers for use of a substitute teacher for longer than thirty (30) consecutive instructional days may be granted for only one (1) semester but may be renewed for a second (2nd) semester. Such waivers are to be submitted immediately once the substitute has been in the classroom for thirty-one (31) days.
4-4.15.7.3 Applications for waivers shall be reviewed by the Department and presented to the State Board for its decision.

4-4.15.7.4 The final decision regarding the granting of this waiver will rest with the State Board.

4-4.15.7.5 Any school district or charter school granted this waiver will be reported in the Department’s annual school district or school report card.
