ADE's My School Info Website Surpasses 100,000 Page Views in 1 Day

LITTLE ROCK — The Arkansas Department of Education celebrates more than 100,000 page views in one day on its My School Info website, marking another milestone since the site's launch in November 2016.

On April 15, 2019, the portal received 131,343 page views with the release of the 2018 Arkansas Report Cards. This breaks the previous record of more than 67,000 page views on a single day that occurred on April 12, 2018, when the 2017 Arkansas School Performance Reports and ESSA School Index scores were released. In September 2018, My School Info accomplished another milestone when the site reached more than 1 million page views since its launch.

“Our primary purpose when developing and launching My School Info was to provide stakeholders easy access to reliable, accurate education information,” Arijit Sarkar, ADE director of information systems and chief information officer, said. “The site's recent milestones show that our stakeholders not only value the site but are using the information on the site to make informed education decisions. We are thrilled with the website's success and are committed to working with our partners to make further improvements that benefit all stakeholders.”

My School Info is ADE's free online resource for school and district data. The user-friendly site is interactive and allows visitors to do the following:

- access school and district contact information;
- search assessment and financial information;
- compare schools and districts;
- analyze trends over multiple years; and
- view school rating and report card information.

ADE continues to seek stakeholder feedback and make improvements to My School Info. Recent updates include the addition of the 2018 Report Cards and long-term goals reports. Stakeholders can access these reports and use the site to compare schools in districts, counties, education service cooperatives, and the state. By hovering a computer mouse over specific data elements, users can access additional explanations and definitions. Users also can export information into an Excel or PDF format, as well as share information with others via email.
