United States History Since 1890

Course Focus and Content

In Grades 5-8, students receive a strong foundation in United States History from pre-colonialism through the Progressive Era, allowing United States History Since 1890 to focus in greater depth on the effects of changing culture, technology, world economy, and environment, as well as the impact of global conflicts on contemporary society in the United States. The desired outcome of this course is for students to develop an understanding of the cause-and-effect relationship between past and present events, recognize patterns of interactions, and understand the impact of events in the United States within an interconnected world. United States History Since 1890 examines the emergence of the United States as a world power to the present. Students will examine the political, economic, geographic, social, and cultural development of the United States of America from the late nineteenth century into the twenty-first century. United States History Since 1890 references the eras and time periods from The National Center for History in the Schools.

Skills and Application

Throughout the course, students will develop and apply disciplinary literacy skills: reading, writing, speaking, and listening. As students seek answers to compelling and supporting questions, they will examine a variety of primary and secondary sources and communicate responses in multiple ways, including oral, visual, and written forms. Students must be able to select and evaluate sources of information, draw and build upon ideas, explore issues, examine data, and analyze events from the full range of human experience to develop critical thinking skills essential for productive citizens. United States History Since 1890 is required by the Standards for Accreditation and does not need Arkansas Department of Education approval.

The acquisition of content knowledge and skills is paramount in a robust social studies program rooted in inquiry. The chart below summarizes social studies practices in Dimensions 1, 3, and 4 of The College, Career, & Civic Life C3 Framework for Social Studies State Standards. These practices should be addressed throughout Grades K-12, building as students acquire the skills. Dimension 2 sets forth the conceptual content, and the alignment to this dimension is embedded in the student learning expectations (SLEs).

Dimension 1 – Questions	Dimension 3 – Sources and Evidence	Dimension 4 – Communicating Ideas
1. Construct compelling questions that promote inquiry around key ideas and issues	4. Gather relevant information from multiple perspectives and a variety of sources; evaluate the credibility of the source by determining its relevance and intended use	6. Construct arguments and explanations that convey ideas and perspectives to appropriate audiences using print, oral, and digital technologies
2. Develop supporting questions that contribute to inquiry: identifying facts, concepts, and interpretations	5. Use evidence from multiple sources to answer compelling and supporting questions by developing arguments with claims and counterclaims and providing explanations	7. Critique the credibility, relevance, and use of evidence in arguments and explanations proposed by self and others
3. Answer compelling and supporting questions using appropriate and available sources that consider multiple points of view		8. Use disciplinary lenses within the social sciences to understand local, regional, and global problems, proposing solutions or assessing strategies and options for action while applying deliberative processes

Engage in disciplinary thinking across the social sciences in Grades K-12

Glossary for United States History Since 1890

Change and continuity	Comparison of different points in time – either two points in time from the past with each other, or one from the past with the present, to evaluate how some things changed and some things stayed the same
Cold War	Conflict over ideological differences carried on by methods short of sustained, overt military action and usually without breaking off diplomatic relations; specifically the rivalry between the United States and its allies and the Soviet bloc between 1945 and 1991
Globalization	Increasing interconnectedness of different parts of the world resulting from common worldwide cultural, economic, and political activities, and the impact of technological advances in communication and transportation
Historical argument	Claim or collection of claims supported by appropriate historical evidence
International organization	Organization with two or more supporting or member nations having a regional or global scope, mission, or presence, generally divided into intergovernmental (e.g., United Nations, North Atlantic Treaty Organization) and nongovernmental (e.g., International Committee of the Red Cross, Amnesty International) types
Progressivism	Period of social activism and political reform in the United States that flourished from the 1890s to the 1920s
Primary source	First-hand account, document, or physical object that was written or created during the time under study (e.g., speeches, pamphlets, government documents, memoirs, letters, artifacts, pieces of art, data results or analysis)
Secondary source	Interpretation, analysis, critique, or restructuring of data contained in primary sources that may contain pictures, quotes or graphics from primary sources (e.g., newspaper articles, magazine articles, reviews of books, reference materials, biographies)
Xenophobia	Fear of that which is foreign
Nativism	Policy of favoring native inhabitants as opposed to immigrants
Harlem Renaissance	Cultural movement that spanned the 1920s; it was also known as the "New Negro Movement" and fostered a new black cultural identity
Lost Generation	Generation of men and women who came of age during or immediately following World War I. As a result of their war experiences and the social upheaval of the time, they were viewed, as cynical, disillusioned, and without cultural or emotional stability; but specifically, a group of U.S. writers who came of age during the war and established their literary reputations in the 1920s
