The district’s student handbook contains the meal charge policy and other information relating to the school nutrition program, which contains a line that reads “Students who have exceeded their limit on the amount of charges allowed will not be denied lunch services. They will not, however, be given a regular lunch tray but an alternative meal that meets federal nutritional guidelines.” This is in violation of A.C.A. § 6-18-715, which states “a school shall not provide a student requesting a mela or snack under this section a meal or snack that is different from the meal or snack being provided to other students in the school.”

There are districts employees outside of the school nutrition program that have the responsibility of running the point of service (POS) system at mealtimes. There is no documentation that these staff have obtained civil rights training. According to Food and Nutrition Services Instruction 113-1, local agencies are responsible for training their subrecipients, including frontline staff who interact with program applicants or participants.
